

It's another day in the town where Calimero and friends reside. In their flat Priscilla is standing in front of a mirror in her bedroom tidying up her ribbon band. She has already put on her purple dress that she often uses for very special occasions.

"There. Now it looks all perfect!" Priscilla said and heads out to the living room. In there Calimero is just sitting on his armchair reading on a book.

"I usually don't just sit down and read on a book like this, but there are times when you just have got to take a break from all the running around during our investigations..." said Calimero and keeps reading. Just then Priscilla comes in and from behind pokes playfully on his right shoulder.

"Huh?" said Calimero and turns around to see Priscilla standing behind his armchair.

"Oh, hi Priscilla." said Calimero.

"Hello, sweetheart...~" said Priscilla and winks at him.

"Tell me, why are you wearing your purple dress today?" asked Calimero out of curiosity.

"I'm going to the caf  teria, and I was wondering if you would want to come with me." Priscilla said. Not really having anything else to do besides reading on his book, Calimero agrees.

"Ok Priscilla, I'll come with you." said Calimero and gets up from his chair.

"Te he. Alright, let's go there. I'm sure we'll love what we might be eating there." Priscilla said.

"Apologize for asking, but... has it all already been planned?" asked Calimero.

"Hm... not what I know of." Priscilla said and quietly giggles to herself. It does seem like she has been planning it all from the start. For the moment though Calimero's not very much in the knowing, and assumes it's just going to be a regular day out.

Later down at the caf  teria, VARIO is in the kitchen being lectured by the owner of the place, who turns out to be a Dumb-Crow with a big chef hat and weird black little moustache. VARIO has apparently decided to take the job as a chef for the day.

"Ok fatso, first things you got to know is where things are in the kitchen." said the owner.

"Alright." said VARIO and makes a salute similar to that of the army.

"Ok, first is the fridgerator, this is where everything that can't be stored at warm temperatures will be stored." said the owner.

"Yeah yeah, I know that." said VARIO sarcastically.

"Quiet!! I'm the one doing the talking here! Anyway, next is the pantry. This is where all the things that CAN be stored at warmer temperatures are without going bad quickly. Next is the place where all the preparing is done, with all the tools needed to do this and that..." said the owner.

"All of this I know already..." said VARIO.

"Be quiet now! I'm not even done explaining it all." said the owner.

"Yes, but... when are we coming to the real stuff??" asked VARIO, seemingly growing tired of listening to his jabbering.

"About now, actually! And lastly, here is the place where all the cooking is done. And around the table here are all the cooking pots, bowls, and such." said the owner.

"Ok, and then? ..." asked VARIO.

"There isn't any then. What matter is, that it is YOUR job to do not only the cooking of the food, but also to serve ANY customers that come here to the caf  teria." said the owner.

"And what are the catches to watch out for?" asked VARIO.

"Well, one only, and the MAIN one; DON'T EVER goof around in the kitchen or when serving the guests, and make sure to NOT do any monkey business in here or even let it happen at all!" said the owner angrily.

"And what happens if that WOULD happen??" said VARIO.

"Well, then you'll be doing THE DISHES!!" the owner shouted at him.

"Oh, ok then... Don't worry, I'll be making sure that nothing weird is going on in here!" said VARIO.

"Ah, Ok. Then I can trust you in doing all this by yourself." said the owner.

"Say, what is this thing??" VARIO asked while holding a rolling pin, but drops it on the floor, and the owner trips on it and hurts his behind.

"Oops, sorry..." said VARIO.

"Grr... well, I'll let you get away with that, but whatever you do; DON'T make a complete mess of this place while I'm gone!" said the owner and makes his way out to do some errands around the town, but not without letting out a small "Duuh" while on his way out.

"Sigh... Dumb-Crows... no matter how dumb or smart they are, they always tend to let that dull and toneless thing out..." VARIO sighed and suddenly starts to do the things he WASN'T supposed to do; goofing around in the kitchen by swinging with the frying pan as if it were a weapon.

VARIO then picks up what he thinks is a salt shaker and plays with it as if it were a laser gun. He doesn't realize it is actually a pepper shaker, and the pepper that comes out of the shaker tickles VARIO's nose.

"Oh, eh... Ah... Aah... CHOO!!" VARIO began to sneeze uncontrollably.

"My garlic, it wasn't a... A-choo!! ... salt shaker after all!! Aa-chooo!" VARIO kept sneezing again and again. He rushes to the kitchen tap to fill a glass of water and drink, but ends up splashing water all over his face.

"Darn it... I can't see anything." said VARIO and tries to wipe the water from his eyes. He ends up bumping into things though, causing some stuffs to fall down on the floor.

Just then the bell rings, and in comes Calimero and Priscilla.

"Hm, the place is looking rather empty today." said Calimero after looking around.

"Yes. On the other hand, it'll be much better if nobody else but us are here, am I right?" said Priscilla.

"I suppose so." said Calimero.

Just then they hear some sneezing and crashing coming from the kitchen.

"Did you hear it? It sounds like it is coming from the kitchen!" said Priscilla.

"Yes. I'm hearing it too! I wonder what the chef might be doing in there, because it sounds very unusual..." said Calimero. After all the noise stops VARIO comes out, still rubbing his eyes, and trips on a chair besides Calimero and Priscilla.

"Wow, talk about a very clumsy chef!" said Calimero.

"Indeed." said Priscilla in wonder.

"Aow... that'll teach me not to mess around with stuff from here on!" VARIO said and gets himself up on his feet again. After finally opening his eyes VARIO notices that his first guests have just arrived.

"VARIO?? What are you doing here?" asked Calimero.

"Yeah. WHY are you here? And why are you dressed like a chef?" Priscilla also asked.

"Hi there pals. Well, I'm working here for the day because my economical situation at home isn't the best right now. It wasn't my idea though, but I decided to take the job after Wario-Ware-Man read about job offer opportunities in his newspaper." VARIO explained.

"Oh, I see. We hope that you'll be able to earn some money..." said Priscilla.

"Oh, I'm also working as a waiter, so... where would you like to sit?" VARIO asked them.

"I think we'll be sitting outside." said Calimero. Priscilla nods in agreement. VARIO leads them outside to the table they usually sit at when having themselves some ice creams or drinks.

"Alright then. May I please have your orders?" asked VARIO.

"Come here VARIO." Priscilla said and gestures with her hand to come closer to her, and starts whispering in his ear.

"Oh, ok. I'll just write it down on a note here and I'll go inside to start cooking." said VARIO, and after noting down the orders he heads back inside.

"What were you whispering to VARIO?" asked Calimero.

"Oh, it is a surprise." said Priscilla and rolls her eyes up.

"A surprise?" asked Calimero.

"Yep." Priscilla said and closes her eyes while letting out some giggles, refusing to be clearer. Unknown to them both, and VARIO for that matter, somebody is sitting at one of the tables a distance away, with a newspaper covering his/her face.

The person lowers the newspaper a little, revealing it to be Suzana, resident thief and Priscilla's mean counterpart. She has apparently been listening to the conversation that were being had a moment ago.

"Hm, so VARIO's been taking a job as a chef and waiter in this cafeteria? Very well, I might as well try and help him out, heh heh heh..." Suzana started to chuckle devilishly and sneaks into the building to make things miserable for VARIO.

In the kitchen VARIO is trying to get himself organized. The first thing he has to do is getting all the things needed to prepare and make the order.

"Hm, let's see. Have I got everything?" VARIO said and takes a second look at his note, after which he goes to the fridge to get the needed stuff.

While VARIO is plucking out things from the fridgerator an egg falls out and down on the floor just behind him. While he has his hands full he doesn't see where he's going and slips on the egg.

"Waah!!" VARIO said and lands on his back, with all the things landing on his head.

"Phew... thank garlic they landed on my head. Now, to make my way to the table over there..." said VARIO and slowly gets himself up, and makes his way to the table where the preparations take place.

At this very moment Suzana is now peeking her head through the kitchen door and sees VARIO standing at the table chopping away at the onions.

"Hah, so this is where that white-clad fatso is doing all the cooking. I'm more than looking forward to how it all turns out..." Suzana said and sneaks inside, making sure to not be heard or seen.

At the table, the constant chopping of the onions makes VARIO cry. He has to stop with the onions for a while and bail his eyes in water.

"My garlic... sniff who could've guessed onions really doesn't want to be eaten!" VARIO said and starts heading for the sink. Not seeing where he's going, he bumps into Suzana who is just about to find a hiding place.

"Hey, watch it!!" said Suzana and falls over. After getting herself up again she tries to think of a place to hide, but slips on the egg VARIO dropped earlier and falls into a garbage bin.

"AAH!" Suzana said as she falls down into the bin.

"Well, good thing it's empty. Otherwise I would've stinked by now!" Suzana said to herself. Unfortunately for her VARIO dumps some of the onion leftovers into the bin, still oblivious to Suzana's presence.

"Sniff... Aw no. And I thought perfumes were worse!" Suzana said, and after getting herself out of the bin she rushes out of the kitchen to get the onion off of her eyes, but not without making some noise.

"Huh? What was that racket??" VARIO said and turns around to see what the noise was about.

"Hm, strange. I could've sworn I heard something..." VARIO said and resumes his kitchen duties.

In one of the toilets inside the building Suzana is still washing her eyes via the tap. It seems to be taking quite some time though.

"Gaah!! Onions are a real eye killer, that's for sure!" Suzana said and keeps rinsing her eyes. After getting her eyes all washed from the garlic she's ready to go back into the kitchen to sabotage things.

"Right. This time my plans won't be falling through!" Suzana said and goes out of the toilet to sneak back into the kitchen.

Back in the kitchen VARIO is working very hard to prepare the dinner for Calimero and Priscilla. Having just walked in again, Suzana spots a bowl of garlic besides VARIO.

"Aha, I'll steal that bowl of garlic. I'm sure he won't mind, heh heh..." Suzana said and sneaks over to steal the bowl while VARIO has his back turned. While he's using the pepper shaker on something he's preparing, Suzana feels the pepper entering her nostrils.

"Aah... aah! ... Aw, not again..." Suzana said and has no choice but to run out of the cafeteria building and sneeze at a place where she won't be heard.

Outside the building, Calimero and Priscilla sees someone running out of the building.

"Who was the person that just ran out and away?" wondered Calimero.

"I'm not too sure who it was, but... let's not mind it." Priscilla said. All she can think of right now is her dinner date with Calimero.

Later on, VARIO is in the kitchen preparing the food to be served. Little is he aware that Suzana might once again turn up to sabotage things for him.

"Phew. With the onions and garlies prepared, all that's left to do are the tomatoes and gherkins." said VARIO and keeps chopping away. When he is having just the tomatoes left to do, and with his back turned, Suzana is now seen sneaking herself in again.

"I better be more careful now to not get myself into any trouble..." Suzana said and sneaks over to the pantry to steal most of the ingredients, the important one being the pasta VARIO's going to be using soon.

"Ha ha hah... let's see if he can cook anything now." Suzana said and is about to sneak back out, but not before putting a box of soap in place of the pasta.

"Right, time to get the rest of the ingredients!" VARIO said and heads over to the pantry and opens it, only to find it pretty much empty.

"Hm, that's odd. I swear the ingredients were in here earlier. I can't have been THAT hungry already?? Whatever, at least the pasta's in there, so it's all good I suppose." VARIO shrugged his shoulders and grabs the package, not realizing it is NOT the pasta he's supposed to be using.

VARIO tries to get the pasta down into the water, only to see some pink dots falling out of the box.

"Now that's even stranger. Why is only this pink stuff falling out of this box?! ... maybe it's one of those instant pasta things!" VARIO said and keeps pouring it down. It doesn't take long for the entire kitchen to be filled with soap foam though, and bubbles.

"My garlic. This isn't the pasta I should be using, it's soap! And it doesn't seem to be stopping anytime!! I better get outta here!" VARIO said and makes his way out of the building. Outside the building Calimero and Priscilla sees VARIO running out and stops to cough up some soap bubbles from his mouth.

"Excuse me for asking, but is our dinner ready yet?" asked Priscilla.

"I assure you it will be ready soon. Just need to sort out a minor problem in the kitchen first!" VARIO said.

"Do you need any help?" asked Calimero.

"I can manage it myself just fine, thank you." said VARIO and keeps coughing up some more bubbles.

Later, VARIO has just gotten the kitchen cleaned up and is about to start redoing the order due to the mishap that happened earlier.

"Right. With all the soap gone, I can finally get started again." said VARIO and goes to get the needed ingredients. No matter where he looks though, be it in the fridge or the pantry, VARIO just can't find the stuff he needs to start cooking.

"I can't have eaten it all up under a few hours. Nope, I was busy preparing the dinner for those chicks outside." VARIO said and keeps looking around. It then dawns on him that he's out of ingredients.

"Goulp. I'm gonna be in REAL trouble now. If I'm not doing my job properly, then I may as well wave that money good-bye, and I won't let that happen!" VARIO said and rushes out of the caf  teria via the backdoor to buy more ingredients.

Meanwhile, at a place far away from the caf  teria, Suzana is shown standing at a lake with all the ingredients in her hands. She dumps them all in the lake and dusts her hands off in satisfaction.

"There. Now I can start preparing for MY masterpiece of a meal!" said Suzana and starts making her way back to the caf  teria.

At the caf  teria, Calimero and Priscilla are still waiting for the dinner.

"Yaawn... he sure is taking a very long time cooking the dinner." said Calimero, feeling very tired of waiting all day.

"Don't worry Calimero. I'm sure it'll all come together, no matter how long it takes." Priscilla assured him.

"Yeah..." was all Calimero said from here on, feeling almost tired to the point of falling asleep.

Meanwhile, VARIO is now in the local grocery store to find and buy all the things needed.

"Hm, let's see. Have I got everything on the list? Garlic, tomatoes, onions, parsley, and this and that..." VARIO said as he keeps checking off things from his list, which turns out to be quite long with almost 60 items on it.

"Hm, seems to be all of them. I better go and pay it all now!" said VARIO and throws away the list, and picks up the pile of wares in front of him.

On his way to the cashier VARIO doesn't see where he's going and ends up bumping into the row of Dumb-Crows and Woodsters in the waiting line, making them all fall over.

"Oops... um, I'll just go and pay my wares." said VARIO and makes his way to the cashier to pay his wares, pretending he hasn't seen anything. After paying his wares and making his way out of the building he turns around to see the Dumb-Crows and Woodsters now chasing after him.

"Hey you, come back here!!" said one of the Dumb-Crows.

"Yeah, you!! We have a bone or two to pick with you!" said one of the Woodsters.

"Uh-oh. Better get back to the caf  teria as fast as possible!!" VARIO said and starts to run as fast as his legs can carry him with the shopping bags in his hands.

Inside the caf  teria's kitchen, Suzana is now having her time cooking. She's not making any ordinary food though; She's cooking the most hideous and disgusting food one could ever imagine.

"He he heh. Me thinks it's going to succeed. I haven't seen VARIO coming back yet, so I'm confident that it's all gonna go to plan. I can only think about the reaction of those chicks out there once they taste their dinner!" Suzana said and takes the time to sniff the food she's making, and sticks out her tongue in disgust.

"Bleech. It smells just awful!! But that's just the point anyway!" Suzana said and starts chuckling rather devilishly.

Outside, Calimero and Priscilla are growing tired of waiting. At this moment VARIO arrives back at the caf  teria with the shopping bags, nearly bruised up and beaten, but not enough to be in bad shape.

"Geez. What happened to you??" Priscilla asked in surprise.

"Um, just a minor slip up while I was out shopping at the grocery store." VARIO said.

"Alright, so are you going to serve dinner, or are you not?" asked Calimero.

"It IS coming. I just had some grocery shopping to do due to the soap making all the ingredients go... well, soapy. And I'm not even trying to joke now." said VARIO and is thinking about heading inside, but realizes that he had bought something for the chicks as a little backup in case the dinner would be delayed.

"Oh yeah, I almost forgot. Here's some appetizers while you wait for the dinner!" said VARIO and presents them some sweet buns and lemonades.

"Um, thanks!" said Priscilla.

"Again, I'm very sorry for taking so long. But you know, I'm still new here, and... right, better not waste time. I'm going back in now." said VARIO.

"We understand. It's your first time being a chef at this caf  teria, so any mistakes or slipups might happen." Priscilla said and watches VARIO heading back into the caf  teria building.

"Still. I can't help but feel that something is not quite right... anyway, I'm too hungry to think about it right now." Priscilla said and tugs into one of the sweet buns.

"Priscilla, do you think we will ever have our dinner any time soon?" Calimero wondered.

"Calimero..." Priscilla said and holds Calimero's hands. "I promise we will have dinner very soon. And from now on I think it WILL happen!"

Meanwhile in the kitchen, Suzana is still preparing her awful and hideous food for Calimero and Priscilla. Just then VARIO comes in and is surprised to see Suzana standing there doing her dirty work.

"What?? Since WHEN did SHE come in here?!!" said VARIO and quickly goes out of the kitchen.

"So all of this is her doing?? I should've known it before hand! If she gets her hands on these shopping bags, then she'll most likely throw it all in the river..." said VARIO and comes to a stop for a moment.

"But hang on. Isn't what I just said the very thing she did with the ingredients that were in the kitchen earlier on?? Ooh, that little rascal! Right, I better find a good hiding place for these bags." VARIO said and rushes out of the building. Outside Priscilla sees VARIO heading out again.

"Where are you going with the groceries?" asked Priscilla.

"Well, I just found something awful in the kitchen, and I DON'T like the sight of it." said VARIO.

"But what is it??" wondered Priscilla.

"Err... It's just that if it sees these bags, then it, he, or she might take them and... well, do something very awful with it! That's why I'm gonna hide these shopping bags and teach that fellow a lesson or two!" said VARIO and goes to find a perfect place to hide the bags.

After hiding them there VARIO heads back into the building. All Priscilla can do is scratch her head in confusion. Inside the building VARIO is seen standing just outside the door to the kitchen place.

"Right..." VARIO said and heads into the kitchen, this time slamming up the doors as he enters.

"Ok, Suzana! Your times as a chef are over! Now tell me what you're doing here, and what it is you're planning to do!!" VARIO said.

"Oh, so you're here again? I knew you would come back. But you're too late to stop me! I've used up, or shall I say, threw away pretty much all the good ingredients that aren't needed, and I'm about to start serving my guests outside once I'm done cooking my newly, wonderful, rotten food!" Suzana said and starts to laugh.

"Alright, that's it! You're not gonna get away with this!!" said VARIO with fury and dashes towards Suzana as quick as he can.

"Oh no, don't you even think about it..." Suzana said calmly and whacks VARIO on the head with a big, wooden hammer.

"Owch... that was a real blow..." VARIO said and falls down on the floor, completely knocked out. After waking up again VARIO at first isn't sure where he's ended up at.

"Where am I? And why are things so freezing cold in here??" VARIO wondered to himself. He takes a look around and sees things being frozen like ice.

"That's strange. What's a big Wario-Nose frozen like a cube doing in here? It's like solid ice too!" said VARIO and touches the frozen Wario-Nose.

"Wait now... frozen... ice... cold... things frozen like ice are also in here... But isn't that obvious now! I'm in the storage freezer, where things like meat, garlic, and such are being frozen up to last longer!! Alright, what kind of idiot has put me in here!" said VARIO and tries to open the door.

"Gaah!! It seems to be locked from the outside! Ok, whoever has locked me up in here. Let me out!!" VARIO said and starts banging on the door. Nobody comes to open it though. Outside in the kitchen, Suzana hears that VARIO's finally woken up.

"Well, look who's finally got up from his nap!" Suzana taunted him.

"Aha, so it's you who's locked me up in here?!! You mean little chick! I'm soo gonna get you once I'm outta here!!" VARIO yelled from the freezer room.

"Just so you know it, any pleas or such coming from you, no matter how dramatic or convincing, won't make me open the door for you!" Suzana said with a smirk on her face.

"You're gonna remain in there for your entire life, and nobody's gonna come and look for you! Who knows for how much longer you're gonna last in there!" Suzana said and resumes cooking her food. Back in the freezer, VARIO knows that just standing around is not a good idea, and tries to think of several ways to get himself out.

"Alright. I can't just stand in here until I become an block of ice! Time to get this door busted open!!" VARIO said and starts to tackle the door. It doesn't work though.

"Ok, you're a toughie huh? Well, I'm not giving up!" VARIO said and keeps tackling the door, hoping that at some point it will open. VARIO eventually gets too tired though and sits down to rest.

"pant... that door sure is TOUGH!" said VARIO.

"Realize it fatso. You won't be able to get out, no matter what things you try!" Suzana mockingly told him from outside.

"Just you wait. In one way or another I'm gonna prove ya wrong!!" VARIO said and looks around for something to use, and spots the big frozen Wario-Nose block.

"Aha! That gives me an idea." said VARIO and picks the block up with both his hands. He goes to the other end of the freezer room with the block and stands ready.

"Alright. One. Two. THREE!!" VARIO said and starts charging towards the door with the block as if it were a big log of tree. But after hitting the door VARIO just starts to shake back and forth in place and falls back on the floor again.

Outside, Suzana overhears VARIO's attempts at busting himself out of the freezer room, and can only laugh with content and disbelief over his foolishness.

"Ah ha ha hah... that VARIO fellow sure is very foolish at times..." said Suzana and keeps carrying on with her cooking. On her side is a visual diagram outlining her latest plan.

"Alright. This is the plan outlined so far: to cook the most disgusting food and serve it to not only the chicks outside, but to all and any future coming guests, the end result being that I get all the money and flee my way out of the town, with the caf  teria being closed due to the complaints and such due to the food being so awful and disgusting, and VARIO losing his job as a result." Suzana read it out. She then rolls up her eyes in content and satisfaction.

"I'm a real genius if I say so myself. Soon, very much of what's outlined on this diagram here, is going to become a reality!" Suzana said to herself. Back in the freezer, VARIO has been overhearing her plan.

"How diabolical of her! I'm gonna stop her at all costs!!" VARIO said and again tries to open the door to no avail, but only gets his nose stuck to it.

"Nngh... How can your own nose just get stuck to a cold, frozen door like this?!?" VARIO said. After getting his nose unstuck VARIO tries to think of an idea.

"Aha, I got it! Why didn't I think of this before??" said VARIO and gathers together a pile of small fire sticks and tries to lit them up into a fire, the idea being to warm up the door.

"Come on now. Make me a nice, warm fire!!" VARIO said and keeps trying to lit a fire. It doesn't work in his favor though, because the extreme cold makes the fire not even start. VARIO starts to get more and more panicked by now.

"Suzana. Open the door! OPEN THE DOOR!!" VARIO started banging on the door like mad. Suzana just ignores him and keeps doing her stuff.

"Ah, there. I've just finished preparing the orders for those chicks out there. Just a few more touches and it'll be all ready to go." Suzana said and does some more touches on the food before bringing them out.

Back in the freezer room, all VARIO can do is walk around to try and keep himself warm, but a pair of icicles are already starting to hang out from his nostrils.

"Brr... It sure is pretty freezing in here!!" VARIO said and keeps trying to warm himself up, with little effect. VARIO's starting to get covered in more frost by this point, and it isn't long before he'll become a solid block of ice.

"M-m-my ga-garlic... Somebody g-g-get me o-o-outta h-here??? I'm f-f-freezing in here!!" VARIO said. With no one hearing him or coming to find him, VARIO realizes he's pretty much done in by now, but still hopes for some sort of miracle to happen.

"If only some kind of lucky thing would happen to me now... be it someone coming to my rescue, or at least accidentally finds me... or if it's all just a bad dream! Anything, anything!!" VARIO looks up and starts pleading for something to get him out of the freezer room.

Meanwhile, outside of the caf teria building, Calimero and Priscilla are growing very tired of waiting for the dinner.

"Yaawn! Our dinner sure has been taking all day now. Let's go back home Priscilla..." a very tired Calimero said and is about to stand up. Being far too hungry and tired though, he just simply falls asleep.

"Hrm... ok, I better go in there and have a word with him. The dinner sure can't be taking all day, can it!" Priscilla said and heads inside the building to have a talk with VARIO. When she gets in the kitchen she is taken aback to see that it isn't VARIO who's in there.

"S-Suzana?? What are you doing in here, and where's VARIO!?" an confused Priscilla asked her.

"Oh, so you couldn't wait hunh? Well, let's just say that VARIO decided to take a day, week, or several years off from doing any sorts of cooking and have gone back home, but he let me take over the place, and now I AM the one who does the cooking here." Suzana joked. Priscilla's not amused or even convinced.

"I don't believe any of it! Now, tell me what your plan is!" Priscilla demanded.

"Ok, you want more of the truth I see... well, my new plan is to cook the most disgusting and terrible food and serve it to you and your little boyfriend, and all future guests coming to this caf teria, the result being that I get all the money and I make my way out of the town, with the caf teria being closed due to all the complaints." Suzana told her.

"How cruel and... rotten of you! I'll put a stop to this plan of yours before you can even carry it out!!" Priscilla said.

"You can always try. But even YOU won't be able to stop me! Now if you excuse, I've got some food to serve, and even you will be getting a taste of it!" said Suzana and goes to get the orders she's finished preparing. With Suzana's back turned, Priscilla sees her chance and runs towards her.

"Oh no, you don't! And I'm not gonna be tasting this icky stuff of yours!!" said Priscilla and pins Suzana down on the floor. From here on a little brawl fight ensues. After a fair bit of rolling around the room Suzana overturns Priscilla and drags her tail so hard that it hurts.

"Aaah!!" shrieked Priscilla. Not to be outdone, Priscilla manages to overturn Suzana and plucks out the lashes from Suzana's eyes.

"Aoow!!" Suzana shrieked. She then grabs a rolling pin and tries to smack Priscilla on the head with it. Priscilla avoids it though.

"Hah, you missed me!" said Priscilla and grabs a potato peeler.

"A potato peeler? What's she gonna do now??" wondered Suzana. Now focused on a closeup of Suzana's face, Suzana can only hear the sounds of something being peeled.

"Just what is that little brat doing to me?!!" Suzana thought to herself. When Suzana's full body is shown again she sees that her ribbon band has been split in two.

"Hey, what happened to my ribbon band?!?" Suzana said. Now showing both characters again, Priscilla is seen laughing besides Suzana.

"You chick! This is my one and only favorite ribbon band!!" Suzana told Priscilla off.

"Well. You deserved it! Besides, me thinks you look cuter this way!" Priscilla mocked her and starts to giggle again. Suzana is growing even more angry and vengeful now.

"Ooh, you little!!" Suzana said and grabs the top body of Priscilla.

"AAH!!" screamed Priscilla

"You'll regret this! Prepare to be knocked out from your whole life!!" said Suzana and prepares to slam her head against the fridgerator. Priscilla manages to free herself from Suzana's grip and opens a kitchen cabinet on the wall just above them, making a big bag off coffee beans fall and hit Suzana on the head.

"Hah, looks like it's YOU who's going to be knocked out from your entire life!" Priscilla said.

"Ow... That really hit me hard..." Suzana said and falls down on the floor, completely unconscious. Spotting the garbage bin Suzana fell into earlier on, Priscilla puts it over her.

"There. THIS is where you belong!" Priscilla mocked her and dusts off her hands in pride. Remembering VARIO, she decides it's best to look around to see where Suzana could've hidden him. Just then she hears someone banging on the door to the freezer room.

"Huh? Is that banging I hear? It's coming from the freezer room!" Priscilla said and rushes over to the door to the freezer room.

"VARIO? Are you in there??" asked Priscilla.

"Yeah. In here!! Someone get me out of here!!" screamed VARIO.

"How did you get yourself in there?!" Priscilla asked.

"Suzana locked me up in here!! I tried to stop her earlier, but she got the better of me!! Once you get me outta here we better put a stop to her!" said VARIO.

"it's ok VARIO. I've already done her in!" said Priscilla.

"Phew, thank garlic! Say, who are you??" VARIO asked.

"It's me, Priscilla! And don't worry, I'll get you out of there as soon as possible!" Priscilla said and tries to open the door, but finds that it won't open.

"Hm. There must be a key to the door in here somewhere. Maybe Suzana has it..." Priscilla said and goes back to Suzana and roots in her pockets, and sure enough in one of them she finds it.

"There. Easy as pie..." said Priscilla and takes the key to open the freezer room door with it. After unlocking it Priscilla still can't seem to open it. She quickly realizes the reason for it though.

"Um, sorry to say this VARIO. But the door must have frozen so hard that I just can't open it." Priscilla shrugged.

"Aw no..." an distraught VARIO said.

"Don't you worry, I've got an idea. I'll be right back!" Priscilla said and goes to get something. Priscilla returns with a portable flamethrower.

"Alright VARIO. Stand back! I'm gonna try and burn a hole in the door now!" said Priscilla and activates the flamethrower. Inside the freezer, VARIO is startled when a jet of fire appears through the door.

"Yikes!!" VARIO said and backs off like a frightened Wario-Nose. After a minute or so the fire vanishes.

"Ok, so it won't fall down by itself!" said Priscilla from outside and kicks the loosened part of the door down and goes in.

"Are you ok VARIO?" she asked him.

"Y-y-yes. I'm alright. I would've been frozen into a block of ice by now if you hadn't come sooner..." said VARIO and starts to sneeze.

"You poor thing... let's get you out of here quick!" Priscilla said. She grabs VARIO and leads him outside, since he is barely able to walk by himself now.

After getting him out from the freezer room Priscilla tells VARIO to sit down by the fire she's made for him. He sits down by the fire to warm himself up.

"There. You're feeling warmer now?" asked Priscilla.

"Barely. But I suppose it'll get better with time." VARIO said.

"Yeah. That mean Suzana sure made things hard for you, didn't she?" asked Priscilla and gives VARIO a hug to warm him up quicker.

"Yep. I'm almighty disappointed and sorry that I couldn't live up to my promise of cooking you the best dinner..." VARIO said.

"Look VARIO, it's alright. It wasn't your fault to begin with. But why didn't you tell us about Suzana earlier?" Priscilla said.

"I... I didn't wanna disappoint you, or make you feel worried. I also didn't notice that Suzana had managed to sneak into the kitchen and mess things up until much later in the day..." VARIO said.

"I see... VARIO, do you still have the note with the orders?" asked Priscilla.

"It's on the preparation table over there." VARIO said and points to the note on the preparation table. She heads over there and reads it.

"Hm... you know, I think I can do this myself!" said Priscilla and dons herself an apron and chef hat.

"Huh? You're gonna cook the dinner all by yourself?" asked VARIO.

"Yes. I mean, you're literally freezing cold by now, and I don't think it's a good idea that you do the cooking the way you are." Priscilla said.

"Hm... I suppose you're right. But, do you know how to cook? I'm not judging you or anything, just wondering..." VARIO said.

"Oh, of course I know how to cook! Say, where did you hide the groceries?" she asked him.

"I hid them at the backside of the cafeteria building..." VARIO said.

"Good thing you did. Otherwise that Suzana fellow would've done something... well, very awful with it, te hee..." Priscilla giggled and goes out to get the bags with the groceries VARIO bought. Looking to where Suzana is sitting with the bin over her, VARIO blows a raspberry at her, only to see his tongue frozen solid.

"Oh, er... I better put it back in now..." VARIO said and quickly puts the tongue back in his mouth, worried it might crack up, and awaits Priscilla's return.

Outside, Priscilla has found the bags and is about to head back in with them. She sees Calimero just sleeping on the table where she was sitting with him earlier.

"Ooh, Calimero. You sleepy boi..." Priscilla said and heads over to him to give him a kiss on the cheek.

"Our dinner will be served soon Calimero hun, and now it is for real..." Priscilla softly spoke to him and strokes his beak with her index finger. Calimero smiles a little as she does this. Priscilla then heads back inside.

Back inside the kitchen, Priscilla is now ready and set to start cooking.

"Ok, let's start cooking!!" Priscilla said and quickly gets to work.

VARIO can only watch in amazement as Priscilla keeps chopping away at the parsley and such. She then prepares the pasta in the cooking bowl as he was supposed to do before Suzana ruined things for him.

"You know, I have to admit that Priscilla would make a much better chef than I am. I mean, even I can't work that quickly! She sure seems to have done all this before..." VARIO said to himself as he keeps watching Priscilla working away in the kitchen.

A while later outside the building, Calimero has just woken up now, still waiting for Priscilla to come so they can leave. Just then Priscilla comes out, now donning a female waitress outfit, with the surprise dinner that were promised.

"Hi there my best guest, and boyfriend! Dinner is ready!" Priscilla said and brandishes the serving brick, with a lid covering the contents.

"Priscilla? What have you been doing since I fell asleep??" wondered Calimero.

"Oh, Priscilla here decided to cook you and her something extra special. You have to find out for yourself what it is though..." VARIO explained, refusing to be any clearer.

"Thank you VARIO. Now, are you ready Calimero?" Priscilla said and puts the serving brick down on the table and removes the lid.

"Ta-daa!" said Priscilla after the lid is removed. Calimero can't believe his eyes; in front of him is a pair of bowls with not only the most professionally, but also the prettiest made pasta salad he has ever seen.

"Priscilla. Did you make this?" Calimero asked in amazement.

"Yes..." said Priscilla and blushes a little.

"This is in fact her effort. I disown all credit for it! But she knows that already... anyway, I hope you enjoy the dinner!" VARIO said.

"Thanks VARIO." said Priscilla and sits down on her chair. She watches as Calimero has a taste of his bowl. He is surprised to find that it tastes absolutely wonderful.

"That is some great pasta salad you made Priscilla! An absolute delight!" said Calimero. Priscilla blushes a little again and gives him a kiss on the cheek.

"Thank you Calimero. I sure am a good cook, ain't I?" said Priscilla.

"Without doubt!" said Calimero.

While they're tugging in on their dinner, VARIO is just standing besides them, looking up at the skies and thinking over the day that have just been.

"My garlic. It sure has been a very rough day today... that Suzana fellow sure caused her fair share of trouble around here. Good thing I already rang the police. I had to tell them to wait though, because I want to make sure that Calimero and Priscilla can finish their dinner here as they intended to." VARIO said. Suddenly remembering something, VARIO rushes inside to get something, and comes back with a pair of soda glasses.

"Thanks for getting us some refreshments!" Priscilla thanked VARIO.

"Did you also make those soda drinks, by any chance?" Calimero asked her.

"Te hee. I did those as well..." said Priscilla and starts blushing again. As Calimero is sipping on his soda he sees Priscilla putting her straw in his glass, and starts sipping on it. He does the same and puts his straw in her glass and starts sipping.

"Te he hee... You cheeky..." Priscilla giggled. They both chuckle as they sip from each others' glass.

"Sigh... Well, they sure are having fun over there. I'm more than relieved that they finally got to enjoy their dinner date in the end. Only thing is... I probably won't be getting any money. But that's fine with me." VARIO said to himself and keeps looking over at the two chicks who are having the dinner date of their life.

Later, as the sun starts going down, Calimero and Priscilla have now finished their dinner date, and the police are escorting Suzana to their car to take her to jail.

"Thank you for everything you've done for us despite all that's happened!" Calimero said to VARIO.

"Yeah. Though I did contribute my bit to it as well, I admit!" Priscilla said.

"Aw, it was nothing." said VARIO.

"Anyway, I had NO idea that Suzana was responsible for delaying the dinner, and not to mention her plan of serving us the most hideous and awful food!" Calimero said.

"Me neither, but what matters now is that she's now being put behind bars." said Priscilla.

"Me thinks the same! I also had no idea it was her doing until much later on..." VARIO said and starts to think over something.

"Alright, I think my job here is finished..." VARIO said and takes off his apron and chef hat, and is about to head back home.

"Wait, where are you going?" asked Priscilla.

"Well. I feel that after all I've gone through today, what with me having been locked up in a freezer room for nearly an hour or so, this job nearly costing my own life, and... I also feel that you, Priscilla, make for a much better cook than me." VARIO said. Priscilla just laughs.

"Ha hah. Well, you're right about the last bit. But I simply wanted to save my and Calimero's dinner date from going sour, and also to relieve you from all the bad you've gone through. But I understand why you're leaving your job behind." Priscilla said.

"Alright. I hope you two had a good day out! As for me, I just wanna get home by now." VARIO said. Before VARIO can go home though Priscilla pulls out her wallet and gives him a sizable tip of 200 dollars.

"Is... are you giving me all this money, for real??" VARIO wondered.

"Yes. I don't wanna see you go home emptyhanded, and I think you deserve it for all you've done, even if it meant having to give us some appetizers." Priscilla said. VARIO is at a loss for words, but accepts the money anyway.

"Alright, thanks for the money." VARIO said.

"Bye VARIO." Priscilla said and waves at him.

"Yeah. Bye! Hope you'll be able to pay the bills at home!" Calimero said and waves at VARIO as well.

"Bye-bye you two!" VARIO said and waves them both good-bye as they walk off into the distance.

"Well. Looks like I'll be heading back home as well. Besides, the owner of the cafeteria doesn't seem to be coming back anytime soon. I wonder where he ran off to..." VARIO said and starts walking back home, now with some well earned cash to pay the bills with.

"I do wonder what other things might happen later on. Also as a reminder to myself; Do NOT take just any jobs... unless they're Suzana-free, that is. I wouldn't wanna cross paths with that terrible thief chick again. Not in a very long time at least..." VARIO said and keeps walking home.

The End...