

It is late noon in town, and inside the Green Team's flat Calimero and Priscilla are sitting on the sofa watching TV together.

"Aah, it feels good that it is just you and me in the flat tonight, right Calimero?" said Priscilla.

"I feel the same as you." said Calimero.

"Besides just watching TV, I wonder what else we might do tonight. Our friends are out somewhere else right now, so there has got to be something we can do!" said Priscilla.

"Hm. Maybe we could go out together? I mean, the moonlight outside is really something to behold!" said Calimero as he looks out of the window.

"Going out? ... Oh no, I almost forgot; tonight is when we should go out on a night date!" said Priscilla.

"A night date?" said Calimero, not remembering anything about it.

"Hang on, I'm sure I wrote it down in my notebook." said Priscilla and pulls out her notebook to check. She then shows it to Calimero, and after reading it he is also reminded of it.

"You're right Priscilla! On this night we are supposed to go out together! But why didn't you tell me about it?" asked Calimero.

"Because I forgot about it over the last few days. Oh, how clumsy of me!" said Priscilla.

"Don't worry Priscilla, we all forget things every now and then. I'm more than happy to go out with you!" said Calimero.

"Oh Calimero, thank you!" said Priscilla and gives him a kiss on the cheek. "Though I haven't decided where we should go..."

"Neither have I. What place do you suggest we should go to?" asked Calimero.

"There is this Café bar in the town. Maybe we can go there for our night date?" said Priscilla.

"Sounds like a good idea to me." said Calimero.

"So does it to me! Let's go and dress ourselves up for the night!" said Priscilla.

Having both agreed that going to the café bar is a great idea, Calimero and Priscilla go into their respective bedrooms to dress themselves up. A moment later Calimero comes out of his bedroom wearing his formal suit.

"Well, I must that this suit looks great on me, but yet I feel a bit... odd wearing it. It isn't completely black though, but it does sort of blend in with my black color..." said Calimero. He then sees Priscilla coming out of her bedroom, wearing the purple dress and shoes she wears on special occasions. She has even put purple mascara on her eyelids.

"Wow Calimero, you look great in your suit!" Priscilla complimented him.

"And you look very cute and smart in that dress!" said Calimero.

"Hi hi... thank you!" Priscilla giggled and gives Calimero a kiss on the cheek. "Are you ready to go?"

"I think I'm ready. Are you?" said Calimero.

"I'm more than ready! Let's go!" said Priscilla. Calimero and Priscilla starts heading out.

Later, Calimero and Priscilla have now made their way to the café bar building. They both look up at the moonlight in the sky.

"Oh, Calimero... the moonlight is soo beautiful!" said Priscilla.

"I agree." said Calimero.

"I think our night will be turning out fine. Don't you think so?" said Priscilla.

"I'm thinking the same as you. I mean, it's gonna be only you and me in the bar tonight from what I can see. There aren't even people sitting outside or anything." said Calimero.

"Perfect! Just as I had hoped it would be." said Priscilla.

They are about to head inside, but sees a pair of young girls in dresses who already were at the door before them.

"Excuse me, but who are you?" asked Priscilla. When they turn to face Calimero and Priscilla they are revealed to be two kitty-looking girls.

"Oh, hi there! We didn't see you coming. Who are you, by the way?" asked the kitty with the red bow.

"I'm Calimero." said Calimero.

"And I'm Priscilla! Nice to meet you girls... whoever you may be?" said Priscilla.

"Oh, of course... I'm Kitty, and the girl with the yellow bow behind me is my twin sister Mimmy!" said Kitty.

"I must say. You both look very alike!" said Calimero.

"Ha ha ha, we sure do! What sets us apart though are our personalities." said Kitty.

"Are you two going out?" asked Calimero.

"Me and Mimmy are going out to this restaurant. Also, we decided to leave our home town for some time to see some new sights, and to see some different cultures. It sure will be fun, won't it Mimmy?" said Kitty.

"Um... yes Kitty." said Mimmy with a look of shyness on her face.

"Are you and Calimero going out as well?" asked Kitty.

"We are also going here." said Priscilla, with Calimero nodding.

"Say. Your sister doesn't seem very talkative. Is there something wrong with me or Calimero?" asked Priscilla.

"No. She's just a bit shy, especially when it comes to people she doesn't know well." said Kitty.

"Yeah, that's true. I do talk... but sometimes I just get so... insecure that I... just wanna... hide behind my sister or something!" said Mimmy.

"Look Mimmy, it's ok! These guys here mean no ill. They just want to get to know us a little better." said Kitty.

"... you're right, sis. I'm just so shy of myself that it feels very silly sometimes..." said Mimmy.

"Look, it's alright." said Priscilla and holds Mimmy's hands.

"I can see myself in you. In fact, there was a time when I used to be pretty shy as well, but I learned to be not so shy after I became part of the Green Team." said Priscilla.

"Priscilla is right. She used to be quite shy, but now it barely, if ever shows itself on her." said Calimero.

"I do admit though, that there are still moments when my shyness returns again, but it is mostly under very specific circumstances. My advice to you is to just believe in yourself, and take it slow with approaching new people and situations. With time you will be getting to the point where I am now." said Priscilla.

"So I should just take it all slow?" asked Mimmy.

"Well... that, and to keep believing in yourself. Over time your confidence will more than likely grow. While I can't say it for sure, at least that's how it was for me!" said Priscilla.

"Well... thank you... Priscilla... you look cute by the way!" said Mimmy.

"Te hee, thank you." said Priscilla and blushes.

"I'm sorry, but what is the "Green Team"?" asked Kitty.

"It is a investigation team formed by me and Priscilla, along with some other friends." said Calimero.

"Yeah. Together we solve mysteries and investigate places... and crimes happening around the town." said Priscilla.

"Neat! May I and Mimmy join you someday?" said Kitty.

"You're more than welcome to join us! Do keep in mind, that the cases we take on won't always be so simple." said Calimero.

"That's fine with me." said Kitty.

"So, where are you gonna sit?" asked Priscilla.

"Oh, me and Mimmy will be sitting at a table for ourselves, and just have a happy night out! Come on Mimmy, let's go in!" said Kitty.

"Coming Kitty!" said Mimmy and follows Kitty inside.

"Now that was some cute girls we just met. Even so, to me you're still the cutest one around!" said Calimero.

"Thanks Calimero. But I do get what you mean! ... let's go inside too." said Priscilla and heads inside with Calimero.

Meanwhile, Wario-Ware-Man & siblings, and Maya are out walking in the town.

"Aah... it was a good thing to go out on a little walk tonight. Things get pretty samey by sitting in our flat all the time." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I think the same as you. I'm also growing a bit tired of having to listen to the parrot's constant squawking all the time!" said VARIO.

"Don't be so harsh on him VARIO! The parrot can't help it that he is a bit cranky." said Warrio.

"Cranky?? He's MUCH more than being "a bit cranky"! Not only does he want to be fed all the time, he also wants to borrow our TV for reasons unknown to me!" said VARIO.

"I know. Maybe he just wants to play some games or something?" said Warrio.

"Well, in that case I REALLY wonder how the parrot would be playing with a gamepad. I mean, it hasn't got any real fingers or hands. It only has wings, and wings can't press any buttons!" said VARIO.

"Well, at least it has got feet, so maybe it COULD play video games by just using its toes?" said Warrio.

"Feet are NOT hands, idiot!" said VARIO. Wario-Ware-Man just sighs over Warrio and VARIO's arguing with each other.

"Sigh... where are your feelings leaning at this night, Maya?" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"Well, going out at night with nothing else on mind is a rather refreshing change for me, and going to the café bar in town is sure to make things even more special for us!" said Maya.

"I agree with you there. But I do wonder... how this night may turn out like." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm sure it'll all go fine Wario-Ware-Man. I mean, it'll be just you, your siblings, and me. What could go wrong?" said Maya.

A little while later, Wario-Ware-Man & siblings, and Maya are now standing by the front door to the café bar. As they are about to head inside VARIO doesn't see where he's walking and ends up bumping into none other than Mr. Critichelli.

"Oops, sorry about that..." said VARIO and excuses himself.

"Hey, watch where you're going, fat man!" said Critichelli in response.

"But hey, isn't it Mr. Critichelli?" asked Warrio.

"Oh, it's YOU guys... what are you doing around here, huh? Looking for new cases to solve or something?" asked Critichelli with a mocking tone.

"No. We're just out to enjoy some fancy food. Nothing else." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Oh... in that case, enjoy yourselves." said Critichelli.

"Are you also going out?" asked Maya.

"That is not my plan right now. I'm out on a very important job right now, which is; spying!" said Critichelli.

"What are you doing that for??" asked VARIO.

"Well, I JUST got kicked out from the news industry last day, so I decided to take on a job as someone who spies on people or organizations at night!" said Critichelli.

"And your reason for that being?" said Warrio.

"To make some sort of income, what else?" said Critichelli. Warrio is about to make some bad comment about Mr. Critichelli's current situation, but is stopped by Wario-Ware-Man.

"No Warrio. We better leave him to his own without saying a thing!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Grr... alright then." said Warrio.

"Well, I hope you succeed with your job Mr. Critichelli. Come on guys, let's go in." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Ah, finally. I'm starting to get rather hungry by now!" said Warrio.

"Hmpf, they may wish me whatever luck there is. At this rate I'm getting pretty much NOWHERE being a spy... anyhow, time for me to start donning my suit." said Critichelli and puts on a spy suit which looks very much just like pink payamas pants and pink shirt, along with a purple mask, making him look somewhat like a certain Wario-Man fellow.

"And DON'T YOU laugh at me! While I know this is a text story, I can STILL see the mocking smiles of you guys out there! ... Anyhow, I better get a move on and hide inside some barrel or something, and start filming..." said Critichelli and goes to find a barrel to hide in.

Inside the café bar, Wario-Ware-Man and his friends are now looking for a place to sit. No matter where they look though, almost all of them don't seem good enough.

"Naw, most tables here are at places where none of us want to sit..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Same here. But, what about that table over there?" said Warrio and points to the table with the fancy lights on the wall.

"Hm, now THAT'S a possibility!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm afraid that table is already taken guys..." said Maya and points to the table where Kitty and Mimmy are shown to have just seated themselves at the table.

"Ouch, what bad luck!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"What about this table by the window here? It's pretty near the front door too." said Maya.

"Good choice Maya!" said Warrio and heads over to the table by the window, with VARIO doing the same.

"Hm... alright, we'll sit there. Seems like the only sensible choice." said Wario-Ware-Man and makes himself seated.

"Wonder what they have on the menus here..." said Warrio as he starts looking at his menu.

"So do I. I'm sure they'll have something vegan in here!" said Maya.

"Let's see on my menu here then... what would I want to eat...?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

Meanwhile, just at the opposite end of the room, Calimero and Priscilla are sitting by their table waiting for their orders. Priscilla hears some chatter by the table at the window, and is a bit worried to see that Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings are also in the bar.

"Ooh nooo... just when I thought we had the night to ourselves in here. They're going to ruin our night should anyone of them mess up. I better do something quick..." said Priscilla and starts to think.

"I'm going to the bathroom for a moment Calimero. I've got a eyelash or two to fix. I'll be right back." said Priscilla.

"Alright Priscilla. Do come back fairly soon though, because our orders will be arriving in any moment." said Calimero, his eyes still fixated on his menu.

"He he, too occupied to even look up... right, better get to it." said Priscilla and sneaks her way to the front door.

Back at their table, VARIO is having problems deciding what he wants to eat. He then hears a "psst".

"What was that?" said VARIO and looks behind his seat. He sees Priscilla standing by the entrance door.

"VARIO, right here..." Priscilla whispered to him. Seeing that his friends' attention are on their menus, VARIO sneaks over to where Priscilla are.

"What are you doing here??" asked VARIO, still whispering.

"Me and Calimero are out on a night date at this café bar." said Priscilla.

"Well, that's great." said VARIO, now talking normally.

"However, in order for our date to go smoothly, I ask you to under no circumstance cause ANY noise..." said Priscilla.

"Well, that bit I certainly can handle. Does it matter if it's just very small talk?" asked VARIO.

"Perhaps not." said Priscilla.

"Ok. And your last request?" asked VARIO.

"I want you to ALSO seat yourself as FAR away from our table as possible." said Priscilla.

"Priscilla, I can't just force my brothers and Maya to sit elsewhere! In fact, Wario-Ware-Man is already thinking of picking a different table." said VARIO.

"Sigh. And what table would that be?" said Priscilla.

"It's going to be the table with a flower vase on it, which is just in front of your and Calimero's table." said VARIO.

"VARIO, please!" said Priscilla, not really being onboard with it.

"I know! I myself don't really wanna sit there! But you know Wario-Ware-Man, don't you? Once he has decided on something, then he's really going for it." said VARIO.

"I'm NOT having it! VARIO, you go and ask them to pick a different table, NOW!" said Priscilla.

"But I... aw, ok. I'll go and tell them." said VARIO and heads back to their table.

"Good! ... now, I better head back to my table." said Priscilla and heads back to her and Calimero's table.

VARIO is about to sit himself on his seat again, but before he can even sit down Wario-Ware-Man begins to stand up.

"Right guys, I think it's best that we pick the table with the flower vase on it." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"But WHY Wario-Ware-Man? I'm comfortable enough where I'm sitting." said Warrio.

"Same here. Why are you insisting that we pick a different table? I mean, the moonlight is just so beautiful, and I see it better from here." said Maya.

"Guys, have I decided that we sit by that table so are we. Now, get off your behinds and follow me." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Warrio, VARIO, and Maya reluctantly leave their table behind to sit down at the other table just in front of Calimero and Priscilla. So far the others haven't noticed their presence yet.

"Um, guys. We CAN'T sit here!" said VARIO.

"Why? This table seems perfect to me!" said Wario-Ware-Man. VARIO tells the others to look up and quickly scribbles a note, and puts it on the table they are going to sit at.

"Um, sorry VARIO, but I couldn't see a thing up there besides the lamp!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"See? This table, according to the note here, is NOT for anyone to sit at!" said VARIO.

"What? You're joking!" said Wario-Ware-Man and reads the note.

""Reserved for special guests only!"... Aw garlic..." said Wario-Ware-Man in disappointment.

"Phew." Warrio and Maya sighed in relief.

VARIO turns to Priscilla and gives her a thumbs up, with her doing the same to him.

"Alright... so, what other table should we pick?" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"Why not just go back to the table we were at earlier?" asked Warrio.

"Absolutely NOT. I don't wanna have the moonlight blaring in my eyes!" Wario-Ware-Man protested.

"Alright. So WHERE should we sit then?" Maya asked him.

A moment later, Wario-Ware-Man has now picked a table right besides the kitchen door. Warrio and Maya doesn't feel comfortable sitting there though.

"So, what do we think about this place? I think it's quite alright." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"No Wario-Ware-Man, it is NOT alright. I don't feel comfortable sitting here. The table we just picked is also NOT a very good place to sit at!" said Maya.

"Right, sorry mrs. picky. I just couldn't find a table that was good enough!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Well. We shall see about it..." said Warrio and looks over to VARIO who is sitting just behind the kitchen door. While VARIO is looking at his menu the café owner (a Dumb-Crow) walks out of the door, with the door hitting VARIO on the head. Just then the waiter comes out, and the door hits VARIO again.

"Alright, I've had enough of this. I'm NOT gonna be victim to a single kitchen door!" said VARIO and decides to move his chair to the other side of the table.

"VARIO, put your chair back in its place!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Wario-Ware-Man! If VARIO wants to move his seat, then let him do it!" Maya told him off.

"Hm, wait a minute... Wario-Ware-Man, how about you and I switch seats?" said VARIO.

"No way! Am I sitting at the left side of the table so am I." Wario-Ware-Man refused.

"I think you should switch seats. Besides, I think that VARIO's been hit by the door enough times by now." said Maya, giving VARIO the go ahead to switch seats. Wario-Ware-Man reluctantly switches seats with VARIO.

By this point VARIO waits in anticipation, expecting Wario-Ware-Man to get hit by the door. Nothing happens though.

"Huh? Why isn't the door opening??" VARIO asked himself in confusion.

A few seconds later VARIO is then hit by the elbow of the waiter who walks into the kitchen via the door Wario-Ware-Man was sitting by earlier. At Wario-Ware-Man's current seat another waiter comes out, the door NOT hitting him on the head.

"Grr... that's it! I've had enough! We're picking a new table, now!" said VARIO and stands up.

"What's wrong now VARIO??" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"I've been hit on the head enough times by now. Let's go and pick a new table already!" said VARIO.

"Sigh. Well, how about..." said Wario-Ware-Man while thinking of some other place to sit at.

Another moment later, they are now sitting at a table by the toilets. Warrio isn't feeling amused by it while Maya feels rather appalled by sitting by the toilets, but Wario-Ware-Man tries his best to not feel bothered about it.

"Really Wario-Ware-Man? THIS is the best place you could think of?!" said Warrio.

"I agree with Warrio. I'm feeling rather disgusted by sitting here!!" said Maya.

"Again, I'm sorry, but this was the only other place I could find that wasn't reserved for "special guests"! I'm also not in the mood to switch to another table." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Just then at VARIO's seat, the toilet door behind him flungs open and a Dumb-Crow is seen having just done his business in there. The others besides Wario-Ware-Man hold their noses in disgust.

"Aw come on. It's just a puny little stench! How bad can it possibly be??" said Wario-Ware-Man.

The Dumb-Crow then comes out of the toilet and closes the door while wiping his hands clean with toilet paper, and dumps all the toilet paper over VARIO.

"Yuck!! Not only has this paper been used already, it also stinks!" said VARIO. Just after he says this another toilet door to the left flung open, and out of it comes a Woodster who is so careless that he throws all used and wet toilet rolls on VARIO, all of them sticking to him like glue.

"Yeesh... looks like it's gonna be VARIO who's taking all the rolls with him tonight!" said Warrio.

"I don't feel like sitting here anymore... let's just find another table, shall we?" said VARIO.

A bit later, VARIO is now seen trying to find a place to wash himself off all the toilet rolls and paper.

"Hmpf... I'm coming to this café bar with my siblings to just have a nice night out, and the next thing you know, is you'll get drafted into helping a chick couple have their best night out, and THIS is what I get; a load of toilet paper thrown all over me!" VARIO complained to himself a little. After looking around for a while VARIO finds a small water tap.

"At last. A place to wash off all this stuff..." said VARIO and is about to turn the tap on, but is stopped by the Dumb-Crow who owns the café bar.

"Stop right there, fatso!" said the owner.

"What? Alright, what is it now??" said VARIO.

"Have you got permission to use this thing?" asked the owner.

"No, but... does it even matter?? It's just a stupid little water tap!" said VARIO.

"You won't be able to amuse me in the slightest, and after seeing all this toilet paper on you... you look like a troublemaker to me! You're a troublemaker, aren't you?" said the owner.

"Grr, I am NOT a TROUBLEMAKER! I'm just a..." VARIO began to argue, growing slightly irritated.

"A troublemaker, that's what you are. You know what we do with troublemakers who dress themselves so appallingly and disgustingly bad?" said the owner.

Before VARIO can even think over it, the owner grabs VARIO and puts his mouth into the tap and turns it on.

"There, drink it all up! Heh heh heh!" said the owner and walks away as VARIO's body slowly becomes rounder and bigger.

Meanwhile, Wario-Ware-Man, Warrio, and Maya are now sitting at what appears to be the place where all the garbage is being dumped out via a hatch.

"Seriously, what is even the point of sitting here?! This is getting rather ridiculous!" said Warrio.

"You hear what he is saying Wario-Ware-Man? This isn't funny anymore!" said Maya.

"Oh, shut it! Just be quiet and enjoy the night, ok?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

They then hear a loud splash of water, and in comes VARIO flying around swelled up like a balloon, with water pouting out from his mouth. He eventually lands on the floor after all the water in his belly has gone, now at his normal size.

"Ah, there you are VARIO. What were you doing while you went off to wash yourself??" asked Warrio.

"Don't ask me about it. I'm only glad that most of the toilet paper and rolls have fallen off of me..." said VARIO.

"Where's the waiter gone?! We've been waiting for our food for a very long time now, and yet he doesn't show up!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

While they are waiting for their orders, a employee comes and puts a garbage bin just besides their table, and it stinks pretty badly.

"Gack!! I can't stand this!" said Warrio.

"Me neither!!" said VARIO.

"I'm with you guys!!" said Maya.

Wario-Ware-Man can only watch in confusion as the others put clothespins on their noses in disgust.

"Come on guys, a little garbage bin shouldn't be ruining our night!!" said Wario-Ware-Man and tries his best to let it not bother him. In the end, even Wario-Ware-Man can no longer put up with the smell.

"Y-you know... maybe you are right about it... it really SMELLS in here!! ... suppose it might be best to find another table!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

Yet another moment later, the next, and the very last table they're now sitting at, is inside the kitchen. For once it doesn't seem too bad.

"You know, for once it actually feels quite good to sit down!" said Warrio.

"I agree. This time you really managed to save our night at the very last minute!" said Maya.

"I know... forgive me for everything that's happened earlier! From NOW on, our night shall be a simple, but pleasant experience!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

All seems good so far, but things are about to fall apart pretty soon, starting with one of the chefs bumping into Maya's seat.

"Hey, watch it!" Maya told the chef.

"Sorry about it madame, sorry..." said the chef and carries on. Another chef bumps into Warrio's seat, making him fall over on his back. This same chef then bumps into VARIO's seat, causing the latter to spin around the kitchen while he's still on his chair.

"H-hey!! I haven't asked to be on a merry-go-round tonight!!" said VARIO. He then falls face down on the floor, with the chair landing on him.

"OW!" said VARIO. After he gets himself up again one of the chefs trips on the chair lying on the floor, causing him to drop a huge bowl of hot, fried garlic sauce all over him.

Outside the kitchen, Calimero and Priscilla are tugging in on their food in peace and quiet, only to hear a loud "YEEOOW!!!!" coming from the kitchen.

"What was that noise about?" asked Calimero.

"Hm, I don't know..." said Priscilla and resumes eating.

Back in the kitchen, VARIO is now seen having fried garlic sauce all over him, along with burn marks on his body and clothes.

"Hm, you know. VARIO does smell rather nice. Reminds me of fried chicken, with a hint of garlic!" said Warrio.

"Very funny Warrio..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Well, being burned by a little garlic sauce is nothing compared to having toilet paper thrown all over you..." said VARIO and is about to make his way back to the table. Another chef carrying a big chocolate cake then bumps into him, making the chef drop the cake which lands right on VARIO.

"My garlic..." said Wario-Ware-Man and smacks his forehead in embarrassment over the turn of events. At this point, VARIO trips over due to the weight of the cake, crushing the very table they are sitting at. With no table to sit at, Wario-Ware-Man and the others remain silent for a moment. Now not feeling so sure about it all any longer, Wario-Ware-Man is the first to break the silence.

"So, um... anyone wanna find a new table??" asked Wario-Ware-Man. Hearing this for the last time, Maya has finally had enough and begins to stand up.

"Enough!! I've been flung from one table to another, all because YOU don't want to sit at the table where the window is!" said Maya and points to Wario-Ware-Man.

"Me??" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"OOOH!!!" said Maya and angrily storms out of the kitchen, leaving Wario-Ware-Man and siblings to themselves.

"Right. There goes one of our friends... but you guys will surely keep me company... right??" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"You know, I've also had enough of this. Besides, we haven't even eaten anything yet, and I'm STILL hungry!!" said Warrio and angrily walks out of the kitchen.

"Fine, suit yourself then! At least me and VARIO here will remain in this café bar, isn't that right VARIO? VARIO??" said Wario-Ware-Man.

VARIO meanwhile, is now standing in the middle of the kitchen, looking like he is about to explode in any second. While VARIO's anger keeps boiling, Wario-Ware-Man are seen arguing with the owner about their food not having being delivered. The owner is not the least pleased over the mess in the kitchen, and angrily grabs Wario-Ware-Man by his bike shirt.

"Goulp..." was all Wario-Ware-Man could say as he is about to see his night end in the worst way possible.

Meanwhile, Calimero and Priscilla are sitting at their table enjoying their desserts, having their best night date in a long time. But it won't be lasting for long though.

"How's your dessert Calimero?" asked Priscilla.

"My ice cream is the best I've ever had. How's yours?" asked Calimero.

"Just wonderful! I picked the same one as you." said Priscilla.

"Oh, really?" said Calimero.

"Yeah. I thought we better eat the same kind of ice cream, so we both can enjoy it together." said Priscilla.

While Calimero and Priscilla are eating on their ice creams, Maya the Bee then storms out of the kitchen towards the café door, with all the anger on her face anyone has ever seen, but still retains a sense of collectedness.

"OOH, this is the last time I ever go out with Wario-Ware-Man again! Being flung from one table to another all the time!" said Maya. After Maya has gone out Warrio also comes out of the kitchen, also looking quite irritated.

"Grr. Why didn't we even get a proper table to sit at?? I also didn't get ANYTHING to eat! And I'm STILL hungry!" said Warrio and walks out of the café bar.

"Uh-oh..." said Priscilla to herself as she witnesses one after the other leaving the bar. Just then VARIO comes out running and stops in the middle of the room. With his clothes being almost gone and having endured one thing after the other, VARIO is now at his absolute limit, and frantically screams out in front of everyone at their seats, or mainly Calimero & Priscilla, and Kitty & Mimmy.

"Alright everyone! This is it!! The moment everyone's been waiting for has come!! Get to hear of the WILD TALE of how I came to turn out like this; It all started with Wario-Ware-Man, who for one reason or another couldn't sit by the table with the window because the moonlight would "blare in his eyes"! From there on I've been flung from one table to another, being hit on the head more than 6 times in a row, having used and wet toilet rolls and paper thrown all over me, the café owner mistaking me for a troublemaker when all I did was trying to find a place to wash myself, having a bowl of HOT, fried garlic sauce dropped on me, only to be greeted by a chef dropping a big cake on me! I had to go through ALL this MADNESS just to make the night of everyone here more pleasant at the expense of my own safety and wellbeeiiiiinnng!!!" VARIO screamed out of his lungs, almost losing his sanity.

Priscilla is now at a loss for words, not having expected things to take such a drastic turn for her friends.

"I... I-I'm... s-sorry for all of this! ... I-I didn't know that things would go so terribly wrong for you guys!" said Priscilla.

"It's ok..." said VARIO, now having calmed down. "I know you didn't mean for it to happen. I also only wanted to vent my frustration a bit, but I couldn't get out of the bar in time..." said VARIO.

"Priscilla, what is this all about??" Calimero asked her. Priscilla remains silent, now going through a state of guilt for what has happened. VARIO is about to head out, but before heading out he turns around to shout out to the chefs in the kitchen.

"And whoever it was who dumped that bowl with hot fried garlic sauce on me, don't even THINK about sending me the bill, because I WON'T be paying!!" said VARIO and heads out of the bar. After VARIO is gone Priscilla starts to cry.

"Priscilla, what's wrong??" asked Calimero.

"I-I didn't intend for everything to go so badly for my friends!" said Priscilla and keeps crying.

"What exactly do you mean?" asked Calimero.

"Well. I had asked VARIO to keep himself and his siblings away from our table, and to also not be seen by us, just so our night date would go as planned. What I hadn't counted on was it would be all done at VARIO's own expense, preventing not only him, but even my best friend Maya the Bee from enjoying a night out!!" said Priscilla and bursts into tears.

"Aw Priscilla, come on. Our night hasn't been ruined because of all this. Besides that, you only did what you felt was best for us so our night would turn out all the more special. Although I do think you owe our friends a apology for it all." said Calimero.

"sob... M-maybe you're right, Calimero..." said Priscilla.

Just then Wario-Ware-Man comes out of the kitchen covering his nose with his right hand. He looks all bruised up and beaten, are soaked in water, stinks of rotten fishes, and are almost covered in snot from Wario-Noses.

"My goodness, what happened to YOU??" gasped Priscilla.

"I... had a bit of an argument with the owner in the kitchen over the poor delivery of our food. It wasn't until I had been beaten up and such that I realized that since we kept going from one table to another, the waiter grew so confused over which table we were at, and he just gave up and returned to the kitchen again." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I must say Wario-Ware-Man, that you REALLY look like you've been having a tough fight in the kitchen!" said Calimero.

"You're right there... now if you excuse me, I'm just going out now... do enjoy the night..." said Wario-Ware-Man. Still soaked, reeking of fish, covered in snot, and still covering his nose, Wario-Ware-Man miserably heads out of the café bar and closes the door on his way out. Priscilla now feels even more guilty for this turn of events.

"Aw, this is ALL my fault! ... Calimero, I need to go out and apologize to our friends for the mess they got themselves in!" said Priscilla and starts walking out of the bar.

Outside the café bar, everyone is now sitting outside at their own tables in the rain, with only Maya and VARIO sharing a table with a big umbrella over them.

"Sigh... I wanted this night to be one of my best, only for a certain someone to ruin it all..." said Maya.

"Sorry if I ask, but why are you letting me sit with you?" said VARIO.

"It is because I feel and share the pain you've been going through, what with the constant switching of tables and not getting a calm, nice night out. In some ways I can also relate to you despite our differences..." said Maya.

"Like me being a scaredy-cat and such?" said VARIO.

"Yeah. Due to me always giving you my support when you're at your most uneasy, I have sort of developed a bit of a friendly and sympathetic relationship with you. It almost feels like you could be my brother or cousin in a way. I hope you're not taking this in a negative way or anything..." said Maya.

"No no, not at all! I may feel a bit flattered after having heard this, but I accept it. At least you didn't have to go through all the things I did!" said VARIO.

"Sigh. That's true I suppose." said Maya.

Warrio is sitting at his own table with no umbrella over him. With no food in his belly and being very annoyed over how things turned out, Warrio is surely not quite happy about the night.

"Sigh. I was hoping for a nice and fun night out, and to have something to EAT!!" said Warrio.

Next to Warrio sits Wario-Ware-Man at his own table, also having no umbrella over him. He has since removed the hand from his nose, showing that it looks all bruised up, with one end of the mustache turned upside down, while the other end is now sitting in one of his nostrils.

"My GARLIC!! What happened to your nose?!!" said Warrio after seeing the sight.

"Don't even ask me about it!" said Wario-Ware-Man and turns to the side to mind his own thoughts.

Priscilla then comes out of the café bar and sees Wario-Ware-Man & siblings and Maya just sitting there in the rain.

"Oh dear... this isn't looking very good..." said Priscilla to herself. She then musters up her courage and heads over to Maya and VARIO's table.

"Priscilla! What are you doing here?" wondered Maya after seeing her.

"Well... me and Calimero is having a night out at the café bar, and..." said Priscilla.

"It's true! It was ME who told Maya and my brothers to move to a different table in order to not ruin the chicks' night." said VARIO.

"I'm feeling puzzled now... VARIO, why didn't you just tell us about it from the beginning??" said Warrio.

"VARIO?? Y-you had us switch tables, and let us go through all of this stuff... just to please others in the café bar??!!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Well it wasn't MY idea from the beginning!" VARIO defended himself.

"It was YOUR fault for picking the wrong tables in the first place, which landed us in all kinds of embarrassing situations!" Maya said while pointing at Wario-Ware-Man.

"Can you all STOP arguing?? I'm starting to get a bit of a headache here! And I'm STILL hungry!!" said Warrio.

"Well, I was only told to seat ourselves as far away from Calimero and Priscilla as possible, without being reminded about HOW far the distance would be!" said VARIO.

At this point, Wario-Ware-Man looks as if he is going to turn absolutely livid for things going so wrong, but simply sits down again with his head rested on his right arm.

"I just can't take it anymore! I only wanted this night to turn out good, but no matter what I do things just turns out rather stupid..." said Wario-Ware-Man and keeps sitting at his table, feeling a bit dampened in his mood.

"I can't just let things end like this for my friends... I better tell them the truth... Guys, listen up!" said Priscilla.

"What is it, Priscilla?" asked Maya.

"It is I who are responsible for this entire mess. I asked VARIO to persuade you and the others to move to a table where you wouldn't be seen by anyone. While I thought things would work out pretty quickly, it didn't occur to me that you guys would be getting into such conflict. It was only when I saw you all heading out that I realized something had gone terribly wrong. I saw my mistake and decided to go and sort things out." said Priscilla.

"So it was YOU who was responsible for making VARIO move us out of your sight?" asked Maya.

"Y-yes... I-I'm sorry for all of this! Please forgive me..." said Priscilla, now with tears in her eyes. Seeing that Priscilla has finally come clean about it all, Maya forgives Priscilla and gives her a hug.

"Of course we're forgiving you Priscilla. You couldn't have known it before hand that your little idea meant certain disaster for us! I'm just glad you've realized your mistake, and maybe even learnt something from it." said Maya.

"So it was Priscilla all along! ... well, that explains it I guess. Glad it was all just a simple mistake waiting to happen..." said Warrio.

Having heard Priscilla's explanation, Wario-Ware-Man is somewhat relieved that things has been resolved.

"Well, suppose that settles it then. But WHY didn't you come and tell us about it in the first place?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I asked VARIO a similar question earlier, but never got any answer." said Warrio.

"Well, I didn't want to be rude by asking you to seat yourselves further away. But the way I gone about it was probably not the smartest..." said Priscilla.

"Next time you two go out and find us also sitting there, you better go and tell us about it so we know that you don't want us to sit there." said Maya.

"I'll be remembering it from here on!" said Priscilla.

"Alright, good to know! How was your and Calimero's night by the way?" said Maya.

"Really great, thank you. Um, do you want to follow me in? I'll offer you to sit with me and Calimero if that's ok!" said Priscilla.

"That's very nice of you Priscilla, thank you!" said Maya.

"I'm not feeling too sure there... considering that you and Calimero wanted to be alone, but... alright, I accept the offer!" said Warrio.

"I, on the other hand, have got to wash off all this gunk from me first before I go inside." said VARIO.

"You can do that in one of the more classy toilets inside the café bar." Maya told him.

"Oh, right. I forgot there are better toilets in there..." said VARIO.

"Are you coming Wario-Ware-Man?" asked Maya.

"Naa, I'm staying outside. I feel like I let you and my brothers down by being so ignorant and believing I knew better... right now, I just want to sit here and think." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright, your choice." said Maya and heads inside with the others, leaving Wario-Ware-Man to simply sit outside in the rain in all his misery to clear his thoughts. Inside the café bar, Maya, Warrio, and VARIO are now sitting at Calimero and Priscilla's table, having a very good time.

"I can't believe that you guys had to go through that much trouble so me and Priscilla could enjoy a moment of peace!" said Calimero.

"Well, it wasn't all bad though. At least there were a few funny moments to be had..." said Warrio and looks at VARIO.

"Oh no, don't YOU even think about it. I am not some BIG fried garlic!" said VARIO.

"I meant the moment when you came in like a balloon with water pouting from your mouth. Now THAT was a very good one, don't you think so!" Warrio laughed and slaps VARIO on the back.

"Oh, he he... yeah, I suppose so." said VARIO.

"Once again, I'm very, very sorry for everything that's happened to you!" Priscilla apologized again.

"It's ok Priscilla. All of that is done and over with. Let's just enjoy the night together now." said Maya.

"Yeah. I actually like the company of Warrio and VARIO here. They are so funny at times." said Calimero.

"Why thank you!" said Warrio.

"Yeah..." said Priscilla. Wondering how Wario-Ware-Man is having it, Priscilla leaves the table and goes to the table where Wario-Ware-Man & siblings and Maya were sitting at earlier. She looks out of the window and sees Wario-Ware-Man just sitting at his table in the rain.

"I can't stand seeing him just sitting there like this... I better go and get him." said Priscilla and heads outside.

Outside the café bar, Wario-Ware-Man is still sitting at his table, thinking over the night that has been.

"Well, it was worth a try. Shame it all had to end like this... I probably aren't even welcome into the café bar anymore..." said Wario-Ware-Man and begins to stand up. He is about to walk back home until he hears someone calling his name.

"Wario-Ware-Man!!" the voice called out to him. Wario-Ware-Man turns around to see Priscilla coming towards him.

"Priscilla?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I just wanted to ask you if you'd like to come inside." said Priscilla.

"Actually, I was about to head back home. I ruined the night of those that were with me. I don't deserve to have any fun..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Please Wario-Ware-Man, don't feel that way! I've already apologized for what I did, and I don't wanna see you leave like this!" said Priscilla.

"But why? It's not like I'm needed for others to enjoy a good night out." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I know you're feeling like this now, but you'll feel better when you come inside. Please do come with me Wario-Ware-Man!" said Priscilla.

"Do I have to seat myself far away from you and Calimero?" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"You don't even need to. We decided to share the table with your siblings and Maya." said Priscilla.

"Hm... alright, I'll be going in!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright then, let's go inside! Your siblings are waiting for you." said Priscilla.

"Do you think the owner of the café bar would welcome me back in again after all that's happened??" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm sure he will. And if not, I'll be charming him to welcome you back in!" said Priscilla.

"Well, let's hope for it." said Wario-Ware-Man.

They start heading back into the bar. After Wario-Ware-Man has gone inside Priscilla stands by the door and turns to the viewers. She winks at them and heads inside, closing the door on her way in.

The End...