

It is a fairly nice day, and for once we're not in the town where Calimero and his friends live, but somewhere completely different. Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings are seen pushing their Wario-Bikes up a hill. They have apparently decided to hit the road in pursuit of new sights, but due to some accident involving Warrio and VARIO their bikes broke, and they now have to push their bikes to a place that accepts repairing of Wario-Bikes, or any motor bikes for that matter.

"Well said there Mr. Narrator. I thought this day would be a simple and fun trip on the road, but a certain pair of nutters behind me just so has to ruin things before it gets any better!" said Wario-Ware-Man and points to Warrio and VARIO behind him.

"Nonsense! I'm innocent. It was VARIO who started it all by seeing a little Wario-Nose crawling on the road, and had to stop just to let it pass." said Warrio and points to VARIO.

"Aw come on, it was YOU who didn't stop your bike when I did!" argued VARIO back.

"Sigh, just snap out of it you two! You both are at fault for the accident. Now come on, we don't have all day to diddle daddle over this thing. We've got to find a place to have our bikes repaired at, and quick." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"My garlic, I'm starting to feel hungry... WHEN are we going to find a restaurant??" said VARIO.

"We will find some place to eat at later. But first we've got to find a bike repair shop." said Wario-Ware-Man and keeps pushing his bike along with his brothers.

A little while later Wario-Ware-Man and siblings are now seen just heading out of a bike repair shop, indicating they've just dropped off their Wario-Bikes for the shop owner to have a look at fixing them.

"Alright, dropping off our bikes at a repair shop is now done. Now, to figure out where to go from here on..." said Wario-Ware-Man and pulls out his map to look at it... you know, the kind of map explorers used to have before these so-called "Smart-Devices" were even a thing.

"You know, this place is looking rather different compared to Calimero's hometown." said Warrio after observing his surroundings a little.

"You're right there Warrio. While the usual Dumb-Crows and Woodsters tend to show up here and there as well, there are even more different faces around." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I can only think of ONE thing right now, which is... to find someplace to eat!!" said VARIO.

"Calm down VARIO. We WILL be finding some sort of restaurant soon." Warrio tried to calm him down.

"Hm, I don't think it's gonna be easy. Doesn't seem to be any restaurants around." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Aw garlic..." said VARIO.

"Don't worry guys, we will eventually find a place to eat at. Let's just continue walking and see where we end up at." said Wario-Ware-Man and starts to walk again with his siblings.

Later they come across a train station. Seeing as the road itself is at a dead end, they realize the train station might be the only way forward now.

"Right guys, the road seems to end here, and there's only this train station. So I guess we better get some tickets and board it." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright then. VARIO, we're gonna get on this train here." said Warrio.

"Coming!" said VARIO and follows his brothers to get some tickets.

After getting on the train, Wario-Ware-Man & siblings are now sitting at their seats besides one of the windows. Warrio is amusing himself by pulling off strange faces at his reflection in the window while VARIO is just trying to have some peace and quiet.

"Sigh. I wanna have some quiet, but Warrio keeps goofing off at his own face in the window..." said VARIO.

"Agreed." said Wario-Ware-Man and pulls up a book to have something to read while waiting for the train to reach its destination.

"Where do you think we'll end up at?" VARIO asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"I don't know. I know I said that we better take our bikes and travel abroad. But I haven't decided WHERE we should be going..." admitted Wario-Ware-Man.

"Oh, so it's all a big question mark as to where we'll be going next..." said VARIO.

"Afraid so." said Wario-Ware-Man and keeps reading on his book.

On a seat behind Wario-Ware-Man and VARIO, a pair of young identical-looking girls are seen sitting there. These girls are none other than Kitty and Mimmy, and they also seem to have been on a little trip of their own.

"So, how do you think our day has been so far, Mimmy?" asked Kitty.

"I sure had a lot of fun today, watching you perform, walking among the flower fields, and such. How about you?" Mimmy asked her.

"Oh, my best moment was roller-skating all around the streets without restrictions." said Kitty.

"Yeah. In our town there has been some restrictions put in place lately that forbids roller-skating on the streets willy-nilly." said Mimmy.

"Yeah, indeed. Anyway, I can't wait to just get home and play a little." said Kitty.

"And I can't wait to start baking my fruit pie." said Mimmy.

They don't notice Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings behind their seat. Although Mimmy can hear Warrio's amusing with himself, she doesn't know where it's coming from.

"Hm, strange. I thought I just heard someone behind me..." said Mimmy and goes back to start reading her book while Kitty plays a little with one of her toy dolls.

Later, the train has just stopped at a station near a town. Wario-Ware-Man and siblings gets off the train, but VARIO gets himself stuck in the train door.

"Help guys, this stupid door just trapped me!!" said VARIO.

"Sigh..." said Wario-Ware-Man and tries to pry open the door with Warrio's help. After getting VARIO unstuck they then head for the place where tickets will be deposited.

"Alright guys. Whatever you do, DON'T lose your tickets." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright." said Warrio.

"But hey, come back here!" said VARIO as he feels his ticket being blown out of his hand by the wind, and starts to chase after it. Wario-Ware-Man just facepalms in disbelief.

"My garlic, as if our day couldn't be getting any worse!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"But look on the bright side. At least none of us have gotten beaten up so far." said Warrio.

"Let's just wait here and see if VARIO comes back." said Wario-Ware-Man.

They wait a little while for VARIO to return, and after a minute or so he comes back again with the ticket in his cap.

"Phew, I'm back again." said VARIO.

"Ok. Now, make sure to not lose your ticket this time!" said Warrio.

"Right. Now let's just hand our tickets over to the guy and we'll be outta here." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I can't help but feel, that whatever we'll be witnessing from here on, is probably going to be quite weird..." said VARIO to himself.

"Heh heh. Don't worry guys, despite the setbacks so far I'm sure it'll be just like any other day for us." said Wario-Ware-Man.

After having deposited their tickets Wario-Ware-Man & siblings head out of the train station. What they're experiencing from here on is a place unlike anything else they've seen in their lives; buildings of varying colors, and people they haven't seen or met before also live there.

"Maybe I shouldn't ask this, but WHY does everyone look like animals in this town??" Warrio wondered.

"I don't find it so strange though. I mean, in the town where we currently live there's also people who looks like animals." said VARIO.

"VARIO's got a point there. While everyone in this town may resemble animals, they are about as human like you, me, and VARIO." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm confused now... but we're not human are we? We're elves!" Warrio pointed out.

"Sigh... Yes, we are elves of some kind, but we are of human nature just like those around us." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm only curious to find out more about this town we're in." said VARIO as he keeps looking at their surroundings.

"I agree. I also am feeling the need to know this place a bit better. Let's go have a wander around and take in all the surroundings before finding a hotel to stay at." said Wario-Ware-Man, and starts walking off with his brothers to have a look around in the town.

As they keep walking around town, they realize the place feels just like the town where Calimero and his friends live; traffic here and there, and buildings here and there. Only difference is the town seems a bit smaller compared to Calimero's hometown.

"Hm, now that we've seen the differences between this town and the one where we live in, I can only wonder what other things we might see during our time around here." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm not feeling so sure, but maybe we'll spot something very interesting soon." said Warrio.

"Aha, and what would that be?" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"I don't know. Maybe we'll see a big group of Wario-noses munching on garlic at some spot..." said Warrio.

"Right. And where does your line of thinking lean at, VARIO?" Wario-Ware-Man asked him.

"I'm thinking more about us meeting new people, and maybe even see sights we haven't encountered before." said VARIO.

"I agree with you there. I think us staying in this town will present us the opportunity to see some new faces, along with discovering new things." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Yeah that's good and all, but... what about our Wario-Bikes?" Warrio wondered.

"Don't worry. I'm sure the repair shop we left our bikes at will be taking good care of them. I think the work is going to be done in about a day or so." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Hm, while at the shop I saw something strange about the owner of the shop. He had a very funny-looking mustache almost resembling that of a certain red plumber, only more bushy and messy than usual..." said Warrio. Wario-Ware-Man doesn't mind his remark though.

A while later, Wario-Ware-Man & siblings pass by what appears to be a school. They stop on the sidewalk for a moment to think about where to find a hotel to stay at.

"So, what hotel will we be staying at while waiting for our Wario-Bikes to be fixed?" asked Warrio.

"I'll try and call some place. Maybe this or that hotel could reserve a room for us." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Being as old-fashioned like old times, Wario-Ware-Man pulls out his 2000s mobile phone and starts dialing a number he jotted down on a piece of paper from some magazine. Warrio and VARIO meanwhile wait for Wario-Ware-Man to finish his call.

"I'm very tired and exhausted..." said VARIO.

"You know, you should probably go on a diet or something if you're feeling that tired..." said Warrio.

"I'm not THAT fat Warrio! I'm just feeling tired, that's all." VARIO told him off.

"Right, sorry. I didn't mean to start picking on your weight or anything..." said Warrio.

"Apology accepted. Anyway, let's just hope we'll get a hotel to stay at soon..." said VARIO.

While Warrio and VARIO keeps waiting for Wario-Ware-Man to tell about the final result, at the school Kitty and Mimmy from earlier are seen walking along with one of their friends, Fifi. Her day at school has just ended, and Kitty and Mimmy decided to go and see her before she leaves.

"So, how has your day been Fifi?" Mimmy asked her.

"Oh, it's been just fine. How was your day out?" Fifi asked the twin sisters.

"It sure was fun. I watched Kitty performing on her roller blades, walked among the flower fields, and... I had a great time!" said Mimmy.

"Yeah. It sure is a good feeling to do your own exploring for once. While me and Mimmy always tend to go out on our own, this is our first time doing an actual trip together without our parents or someone else at our side." said Kitty.

"I see. So how was your day?" Fifi asked Kitty.

"It was my best day ever! For once I was able to just rollerskate all over the place without having to adhere to any restrictions or rules!" said Kitty.

"Well, I've got to go home now. See you next day here at school." said Fifi.

"Alright, see you tomorrow." said Kitty.

"Bye Kitty and Mimmy!" said Fifi and waves them goodbye as she leaves.

"Bye!" said Kitty and Mimmy.

"Right, let's head back home Mimmy. Our parents might start to wonder where we are if we don't turn up any time soon." said Kitty and is about to start heading back home with Mimmy, only to spot three peculiar figures standing at the sidewalk just outside the school.

"That's curious. When did we last see those guys around here Kitty?" asked Mimmy.

"Hm, I don't know. I might have seen them before, but where..." said Kitty to herself. She then calls out to them and starts running alongside Mimmy.

"Huh? Who are those two young girls coming towards us?" said VARIO.

"I'm not quite sure, but... hey Wario-Ware-Man, put your phone down for a second, will ya?" Warrio told him. Still talking with the hotel owner on the phone, Wario-Ware-Man gestures to his brothers to not disturb him right now.

"My garlic, looks like we'll have to do the talking for now." said Warrio.

"Er... Pardon me for asking, but... who are you two?" VARIO asked the girls.

"I'm Kitty, and this is my sister Mimmy!" Kitty introduced themselves to Warrio and VARIO.

"I see. Well... nice to meet ya." said VARIO.

"It's nice to see you as well. But who are you guys?" asked Kitty.

"Kitty, I've just been reminded of something." said Mimmy.

"And what is that?" asked Kitty.

"Remember when we were at the Café bar in that town we were at sometime ago?" said Mimmy.

"Yes?" asked Kitty.

"Well, I happened to notice that black-n-white clad guy while we were there." said Mimmy.

"Oh yes, you're right Mimmy! I also saw the one next to him!" said Kitty.

"You mean me, right?" asked Warrio.

"Ha ha, yes. Of course I mean you." said Kitty.

"Alright. Might as well introduce ourselves... I'm Warrio, and the one next to me in black and white clothes are VARIO. His name is spelled in ALL CAPS by the way." said Warrio.

"That is so." said VARIO.

"May I say, that you both look very alike, but I'm sure there's some differences between you two... apart from the clothes and the placements of the ribbons of course." said Warrio.

"Te he. We always hear that we're both alike. Though Mimmy sometimes feels that similarity between to be a bother to her, isn't that right?" said Kitty.

"Yes. It does irritate me a little sometimes. But it's rather singlesided most of the time, and usually I get over it in an hour, or even minutes." admitted Mimmy.

"And yes, there's lots of differences between us. I'm the more sporty and active type, while Mimmy here prefers reading or baking pies." said Kitty.

"Right, so that's some of the differences noted." said Warrio.

"Say, who's that guy behind you?" asked Kitty while pointing to Wario-Ware-Man.

"Oh, that's our leader and main brother, Wario-Ware-Man. Although he looks too occupied with his phone right now to even have a conversation..." said Warrio.

"Oh? We didn't know that the three of you were related." said Mimmy with curiosity.

"We are in fact triplet brothers, and we all have a veery long backstory to tell. I don't wanna talk about it though because it would take us days, weeks, or even months to tell the whole thing from start to finish." said VARIO.

"Right guys. I wasn't able to score a hotel room for us..." said Wario-Ware-Man after putting away his phone.

"Aw, too bad..." said VARIO in disappointment.

"Say, who are those girls?!" said Wario-Ware-Man in surprise upon seeing Kitty and Mimmy.

"Ah, so our main brother is finally done mingling with the hotel owner, I see?" Warrio remarked. Kitty and Mimmy just giggles after hearing Warrio's response.

"Actually, the owner of the hotel was a guy. Anyway, we couldn't get a room since the hotel is currently being refurbished." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"What hotel were you planning to stay at?" asked Mimmy.

"We were going to stay at the hotel down the town, but it seems to not be open for guests right now..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Like what was just said, the hotel in the town is being refurbished, and is closed for business at this time." said Kitty.

"That's a bummer. I wonder where we could stay..." said Warrio.

"I wonder the same thing." said Wario-Ware-Man, feeling equally clueless and out of options.

"You can stay in our house if you want." Kitty offered to Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings.

"Hm... I'm not feeling quite sure about it..." said Warrio with a bit of uncertainty.

"That's very nice of you. We'll accept the offer, because... there's probably no other place we could stay at... well, except for sleeping in the park maybe." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"No way I would wanna do that!" said VARIO.

"I'm with VARIO there. Maybe it's best that we follow your word Wario-Ware-Man." said Warrio.

"Alright. Come on guys, let's head towards Kitty and Mimmy's house." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Before anyone can even move a thundering sound is heard, startling not only Kitty and Mimmy, but Warrio to a degree.

"Waah! What was that??" said Mimmy.

"Same can I ask you. Was it an earthquake or something?!!" said Warrio.

"Sigh. It was just my belly acting like an angry Wario-Nose..." said VARIO.

"To clarify, VARIO is just a bit hungry." said Warrio.

"Yeah. Gotta wonder why I haven't felt any hunger until now..." said VARIO.

"One thing I have to add on top of my brothers' commentary, is we've found out a system for when it is time to eat; if rumbling like what just came from VARIO is heard, then it's time for either him or all of us to find some place eat at." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Our mom is probably cooking dinner at home right now. I'm sure you guys can have something too." said Kitty.

"Am I relieved to hear it, because knowing VARIO here, if he doesn't get anything to eat when it's time for it, he becomes the most complaining brother anyone's ever seen." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Well... yeah, I suppose I am like that when I'm far too hungry." said VARIO. Kitty and Mimmy just giggles upon hearing this.

"Alright. Let's go to our house then!" said Kitty and with Mimmy leads Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings to the White family's house.

Back in their home, Kitty and Mimmy's mother are seen preparing dinner in the kitchen, with her husband George sitting at the table reading the paper while smoking on his pipe.

"I wonder how their day has been." George wondered.

"They're probably doing fine. Will you pull out the plates and forks and knives for me? The dinner is almost done." said Mary. George gets up from the chair and starts pulling out the things needed and putting them on the table.

"I wonder if Kitty and Mimmy would find some new friends besides the ones they know already." said Mary.

"I think they will find themselves some new friends eventually. Kitty is probably the most outgoing of our kids, so for her it's easier. For Mimmy though I guess it could be more tricky." said George.

"Well, Mimmy's shyness is just one part of the reason for it, the other one being that Mimmy is usually a bit of a homebody." said Mary.

"Yeah. Though I can only wonder where her shyness comes from..." George said to himself.

"Maybe she has inherited it from you?" said Mary jokingly while giggling a bit.

"Hm. It's possible. I don't know... I do remember being shy on the day I asked you out on a date." said George.

"Yes. But you did find the courage to do so. How that came to be I don't think anyone besides you know." said Mary.

"Maybe I got myself a bit of a push or something, and the words your father said to me also helped me a little." said George.

Just then the doorbell rings. Mary comes out of the kitchen and sees Kitty and Mimmy standing at the front door.

"Hi mom, we're back." said Kitty.

"Hi girls. You got home just in time for dinner. So, how was your day out?" said Mary.

"Oh, I had the best day out! It felt so good to just skate around on my rollerblades." said Kitty.

"My day has been good as well." said Mimmy.

"That's good to know." said Mary.

"We also met some new fellows on our way home." said Kitty.

"Oh, really? How are they like? Can we see them?" asked Mary.

"Ok, let's get inside Mimmy." said Kitty and without further ado heads inside with Mimmy to let their new friends in. Their mother is surprised to see three guys with pink noses and zig-zag mustaches with clothes of varying styles standing at the front door.

"My... I didn't expect to see such sights today." said Mary.

"Don't worry over how we look madame. We're not here to cause any trouble." Warrio tried to assure Mary.

"Hush Warrio. I think maybe it's best that Kitty introduces us to their mother." Wario-Ware-Man told him.

"I will. Mom, these guys are Wario-Ware-Man, Warrio, and VARIO. The name for the last one are spelled in all caps for some reason." said Kitty.

"Yeah. Even I'm scratching my mustache over that from time to time..." VARIO admitted.

"Ok, it's nice to know who you are, but... what made you come to this town? Just asking." said Mary.

"Well, I'll be getting right to the point; Me and my brothers here were out cruising on our motor bikes for the day to see some new sights. Later they broke down due to some accident..." said Wario-Ware-Man while glancing at Warrio and VARIO.

"Yeah yeah, we know. Me and VARIO who were the cause for it..." said Warrio.

"Anyway, after our bikes broke we brought them to a repair shop to get them fixed. Having some time to spend, and not really having any particular goal with our trip, we boarded a train and ended up in the suburbs of this town. While waiting to get a room at a hotel we met these girls here, and they invited us to stay for who knows how long, at least until we can find some other place or our bikes gets fixed." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I can tell you're not from here, or any other place I can think of." said Mary.

"They're living in Italy, which is where they, along with some other guys, solves crimes, goes on investigations, and the like." Kitty told her mom.

"Well, you could say that we do. I can't really remember how it came to be. It just sort of happened." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Hm, that's very interesting. From what I know, there has rarely been any crimes happening around this town which is a good thing. But I can only wonder when and where one is going to take place." said Mary.

Wario-Ware-Man is about to tell Mary more about it until he sees one of his brothers not being around. He's puzzled to not see VARIO anywhere.

"VARIO? Where in the garlic are you?" Wario-Ware-Man called out. A response is heard from outside. Wario-Ware-Man opens the door to see VARIO still standing outside.

"VARIO, why are you still outside??" said Wario-Ware-Man in wonder.

"I... I'm just not sure if we really should be staying..." said VARIO.

"Um, you did hear Kitty and Mimmy saying that they're allowing us to stay in this house, didn't ya?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Why isn't he coming in?" Mary asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"You see, this guy here can sometimes be a bit timid of himself, and being hesitant and feeling unsure of things." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm starting to see a pattern between him and Mimmy... but don't worry VARIO. You're more than welcome to stay in our house just like your brothers here." said Kitty.

"Indeed, you're all welcome to stay." said Mary and invites VARIO to come inside.

"Hm... alright, if you insist on it, then I guess all is ok." said VARIO and heads inside with the others.

A bit later in the evening it's dinner time. In the case of Wario-Ware-Man & siblings, it is a bit mixed when it comes to etiquette. While Wario-Ware-Man shows his best side at the table, Warrio has clearly fallen into his usual habits at home, while VARIO is struggling to know whether he's showing proper etiquette. Wario-Ware-Man glances at Warrio who is certainly not eating properly, generally causing a mess at his plate.

"Warrio, do behave now!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright." said Warrio. It all falls on deaf ears though, because as soon as Wario-Ware-Man turns his head away is when Warrio starts doing the same thing again.

"Warrio, didn't I just tell you to eat properly!?" Wario-Ware-Man told him again.

"Why should I be doing that?? We always eat the way we do at home, don't we?" asked Warrio.

"Yes, but you've got to remember that we're not in our own house now. When you're visiting a family or something it is best to show respect and etiquette at the table, because it can't always be taken for granted that they will be accepting of your eating habits." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Yeah, so?" asked Warrio.

"If I may make a small reference to some earlier series that you, I, and VARIO once featured in; that series featured some sort of humor that we at the time didn't really mind much about. But there was always this or that other guy who didn't think the same as we. That's what I'm trying to tell you when it comes to showing table etiquette. If you can't behave at the table, go and sit somewhere else, or you'll bother those who are also eating." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Grumble... alright alright, I'll behave myself..." Warrio grumbled under his breath and tries to eat properly from here on.

"Oh, by the way..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Yeah? What now?" said Warrio.

"Clean the spots around your plate before eating again. It looks like a real mess!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"But what should I use to clean it with??" said Warrio.

Sighing, Wario-Ware-Man gets up from his chair, takes a dishrag and wets it a little under the kitchen faucet, and gives it to Warrio.

"There, now clean up after yourself." said Wario-Ware-Man. Being less than happy about it, Warrio starts to clean the table around his plate.

"I apologize for the behavior of one of my brothers. Apparently it'll take some lecturing to really get him to understand about table etiquette." Wario-Ware-Man apologized to Kitty and Mimmy's parents.

"It's ok. Kitty and Mimmy do sometimes make a mess too. But we appreciate you keeping an eye on your brothers." said Mary.

Wario-Ware-Man turns to see VARIO still holding his fork and knife, not having eaten anything on his plate.

"VARIO, why aren't you eating? Is there something wrong with the food?" Wario-Ware-Man asked.

"No. I'm simply feeling unsure if I am showing any real etiquetté..." said VARIO.

"Well, you are doing fine for now, but you can do even better by starting to eat." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright..." said VARIO and cuts one of the potatoes and tries to pick it up with his fork, but it drops back onto the plate. He tries to pick it up again, but it falls back down again. VARIO then tries a third time, and it now seems like he has finally gotten the piece of potato to stick on the fork.

"Phew, I finally did it!" said VARIO with slight relief, only for the potato to fall down on the edge of table this time and bounce down on the floor.

"My garlic, guess I messed it up badly there. I have after all mostly been eating garlic with my bare hands through my whole life..." said VARIO in shame.

"But you did try your best. You can do it for sure with a bit of practice." Kitty assured him.

"Yeah. And you are doing much better than Warrio over there!" said Wario-Ware-Man and points to Warrio who is still struggling with trying to eat properly.

"Hrm, don't even start it..." said Warrio and goes back to finish his meal.

"But do pick up the potato you just dropped though." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright." said VARIO and gets down on the floor to pick it up.

Later in the afternoon it is time for bed, and Wario-Ware-Man & siblings are standing in the bathroom brushing their teeth. While brushing his teeth VARIO is feeling irritated over Warrio's constant gurgling.

"Warrio, would you please quit doing that for a moment?!" said VARIO.

"What?" asked Warrio.

"Your gurgling is irritating me!" said VARIO.

"But why are you finding my gurgling so annoying??" asked Warrio.

"Your gurgling noises are extremely loud! They are so loud that they could easily scare off a army of Woodsters!" said VARIO.

"Phah, try and convince me, because YOUR gurgling is the worst!" said Warrio.

"And HOW is that?" said VARIO.

"I just find it so incredibly annoying to listen to, that's all. And it IS worse than mine." said Warrio.

"I don't think so, because my gurgling isn't that loud, unlike you." said VARIO.

"VARIO's right there. In fact, from all the times I've been in the bathroom I can barely hear VARIO gurgling." Wario-Ware-Man pointed out.

"That is just my problem; VARIO's gurgling is so quiet that it could be easily mistaken for the sound of a little fly!" said Warrio.

"Guys, stop argue about this little thing now and get ready for bed." said Wario-Ware-Man.

They then hear someone else gurgling in the bathroom. The gurgling is apparently coming from Kitty.

"I... I take back what I just said about you VARIO." said Warrio.

"Well, at least her gurgling sounds a bit better to me." admitted VARIO.

"Oh, hi guys. Getting ready for bed too I see?" said Kitty and keeps gurgling while standing in the front of the mirror.

"Um... let's just get ready for bed now guys. We've got a long day ahead of us tomorrow..." said Wario-Ware-Man and tells his brothers to finish brushing their teeth.

The next morning Calimero and friends are shown driving with Maya the Bee on her motor bike. They are apparently looking for Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings, considering they haven't yet come back.

"Excuse me for asking, but why are we looking for Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings?" asked Calimero.

"Well, I haven't heard anything from them since they left the town yesterday. Feeling a bit concerned, I thought it may be best to try and see if we can find out where they are." said Maya.

"But, Wario-Ware-Man and his brothers are fully capable of getting back home on their own. They surely don't need us to guide them back home." said Piero.

"Yes I know they're able to get back home just fine, but something could have happened to them during their trip." said Maya.

"Indeed. They can be pretty much anywhere around here, and who knows what might have happened to them." said Priscilla.

"I see a bike repair shop just ahead! Maybe we can ask them for information." said Roshita.

"Alright. Let's stop by there and see if they know anything." said Maya and stops by the repair shop. Inside the shop they meet with the owner, who sports a rather bushy and strange mustache on his face.

"So let me get this right. You're looking for a trio of guys with pink noses and zig-zag mustaches, and you're asking me if I've seen them around here?" said the shop owner.

"Yes. Have you seen them entering this shop at any point?" asked Calimero.

"They showed up here yesterday and dropped off their broken motor bikes for me to fix." said the shop owner.

"Do you have any idea where they went after dropping off their bikes?" asked Maya.

"Hm, sorry. I have no idea where they gone off to since they just left the shop again after dropping off their bikes in here." said the shop owner.

"Sounds like they must have had an accident of sorts, considering they had to drop off their bikes here." said Valeriano.

"I'm thinking the same as you. But I wonder where exactly they are now..." said Priscilla.

"Let's keep looking around for them. Maybe we'll spot them somewhere." said Calimero and leaves the shop with the rest of the group.

After they have left the shop the owner then starts to think of something. He then pulls up a cell phone and starts to dial a number.

"Right, hello you guys. I've just pinpointed the location of Wario-Ware-Man and his brothers. I think we can start our operation today. Come to the bike shop and pick me up, and I'll tell you more about it..." said the shop owner and turns off the cell phone. His voice then starts to resemble more and more of a certain snobby woman as he starts to laugh. Nothing more is revealed right now though since the scene fades to black.

Back to Calimero and friends, they have just gotten up on Maya's bike again and is about to drive off.

"We won't be taking the hill going down because it all comes to a dead end, and there's only a train station there. We also don't have money to buy any tickets." said Maya.

"So, which route should we take?" asked Susie.

"I know of a route which will lead us into a town." said Maya.

"A town might be the best place to ask for more information. Anyone there could possibly have seen Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings passing by." said Calimero.

"Ok, let's go there!" said Valeriano.

Maya and friends starts driving towards the town that Maya seems to know about, and hopefully they will be finding Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings down there.

Meanwhile, back in the White family's house Wario-Ware-Man are now standing outside with Kitty, ready to hit the road.

"Alright. We'll be off now. Thanks for letting us stay in your house." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Aw, it's nothing. Also, may I and Mimmy follow you guys for a while on our way to school?" said Kitty.

"Hah, of course you may. We certainly appreciate the company. Gotta wait for Warrio to get VARIO first though." said Wario-Ware-Man. They then see Warrio coming out again.

"Ah there you are. Is VARIO coming anytime soon?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Um..." Warrio was about to answer until the sound of a horn is heard.

"Hi Wario-Ware-Man and Warrio, so this is where you guys have been!" said Maya and waves to them.

"Maya? Calimero and guys? What are you doing here??" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"Well, I was just feeling a bit concerned for you guys after you had been gone for over a day, so we decided to hit the road to see if we could find you." said Maya.

"At least we're glad to see that you've been doing well." said Valeriano.

"Sorry for asking, but... do you know these guys?" asked Mary.

"Um, we sure do. But I think it is best we let these guys introduce themselves." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Because we think they'll do it much better than any of us here can..." said Warrio.

"Alright. My name is Calimero, and I'm the main leader of the group behind me. This pretty little chick behind me is Priscilla. The one in a blue vest and red helmet is Valeriano. The chick besides him wearing a yellow dress and glasses are Roshita. The girl with a pink dress and pig tails are Susie, and the duck in a blue vest is Piero. Together we are known as the Green Team." said Calimero.

"And I am Maya the Bee, just to introduce myself a little bit." said Maya.

"Hey, I know those guys." said Kitty as she points to Calimero and friends.

"Oh, so you have met before, haven't you?" Mary asked her.

"We have. Me and Mimmy met them while staying in their hometown for some time." said Kitty.

"It's been some time since we last saw you. So how are you?" asked Priscilla.

"I'm fine. And you are out doing some investigations today?" asked Kitty.

"We came just to see Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings, but we might as well settle around here for a while before returning back home." said Calimero.

"Er, sorry if I'm interrupting you guys but... I've gone inside to have a look, and I couldn't find VARIO anywhere in there." Warrio told the others.

"I'm not that surprised. VARIO is known to at least you and me for getting up earlier than usual at times. He could have just gone out for a walk or something." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Oddly enough, I also don't see Mimmy around here." said Warrio.

"That's strange. She usually sticks with me when we're going together. I'll go in and check!" said Kitty and heads inside to look for Mimmy. She then comes out again.

"I've had a look as well, and even I can't find Mimmy!" said Kitty.

"Hm, two missing persons... might as well be the perfect time to do some investigation!" said Valeriano and pulls up his video camera.

"I agree. Let's go and find the missing persons!" said Calimero.

"Although I believe Mimmy to have just gone out for a walk, maybe something else could have happened to her..." said Kitty and tags along with the other guys.

"So, how have you guys been doing lately?" Kitty asked Calimero and his friends.

"Just fine. We've been doing the usual investigations, solving crimes, and all that." said Calimero.

"I'm also doing fine. I always follow Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings on their adventures, regardless of what happens. I'm also rather used to their little schenigans and missteps, having known them for a very long time." said Maya.

"How have you and Mimmy been doing though? Do you have any more plans to come to our town?" Priscilla asked Kitty.

"We are doing just fine. And yes, we might return again someday. When we're not sure though, but I'll see if we can find some time for travelling again soon." said Kitty.

"I really wonder where VARIO and Mimmy have gone off to..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Don't worry, we will be finding them fairly soon. The only question is where to look for information..." said Calimero.

"I think VARIO must have gone out to buy himself some snacks, or to see the odd Wario-Nose here and there." said Warrio.

"Maybe. But I'm feeling doubtful over both possibilities..." said Wario-Ware-Man with a look of doubt on his face.

As they pass by Kitty and Mimmy's school, they see a young girl in a blue dress and yellow flower hairpin, known as Fifi, who happens to resemble a sheep lamb.

"Oh, hi Kitty!" said Fifi.

"Hi Fifi!" said Kitty.

"Where are you going? I thought you and Mimmy were coming to school today." said Fifi.

"We were, but Mimmy and somebody else has gone missing today, and we haven't seen them since we woke up." said Kitty.

"I see we have some newcomers around here." said Fifi after seeing the others besides Kitty.

"Yeah. Me and my brother arrived yesterday." said Wario-Ware-Man while pointing to Warrio.

"And we came here just today." said Valeriano while pointing to his group of friends.

"Oh, I almost forgot. My name is Fifi. And you guys are?" said Fifi.

"Fifi, this is our newcomers, in order; Wario-Ware-Man, Warrio, Maya the Bee, Calimero, Priscilla, Valeriano, Roshita, Susie, and Piero." Kitty introduced Fifi to them.

"Me and the others besides Wario-Ware-Man, Warrio, and Maya, are a group who investigates places and solve mysteries." said Calimero.

"That's right. Together we are known as the Green Team, and I am the group's main camera man!" said Valeriano.

"All this sounds very intriguing and fun! I hope to be witnessing it for myself someday." said Fifi.

"Have you seen either Mimmy or someone called VARIO around here?" Calimero asked Fifi.

"I haven't seen the latter, but I DID see Mimmy pass by on her way to school. I'm not sure where she was going though because I didn't think of asking her about it." said Fifi.

"At what time in the morning was it you saw her?" asked Calimero.

"I've just come to school, but I think it must've been around 8 'o clock. I've got a bit of a way to go between home and school, and since that time I haven't seen Mimmy. She hasn't even shown up around school yet." said Fifi.

"So where could they both have gone then?" wondered Calimero.

"Hm, one of the places I know she might go to would be in the woods. It is there she tends to find some of the very best apples for baking her pies with." said kitty.

"That is certainly a possibility. When it comes to VARIO though, it is very much a guessing game. Let's go to the woods, we might find them in there." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"But why would it be a guessing game to find your brother in the woods?" asked Piero.

"VARIO has had a tendency to sleepwalk in his earlier days. While it seems not as likely to happen these days, it could very well do... when one least expects it." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Alright, let's head to the woods and see if we can Mimmy and VARIO there!" said Calimero and heads with the others towards the woods.

Later in the woods, Calimero and friends are searching around for VARIO and Mimmy. They call out their names, but nobody answers their calls.

"Phew. We've looked everywhere for them, but yet we can't find them..." said Calimero.

"We won't give up yet. They've got to be in here somewhere. So far we've only looked at the surface." said Valeriano.

"Indeed. But I have a feeling that finding them is going to be easier said than done." Wario-Ware-Man said to himself.

While the group ponder over VARIO and Mimmy's whereabouts Warrio then spots something on the ground besides him.

"Huh, a nightcap??" said Warrio and picks it up.

"Who would just drop their nightcap on the ground like this, and why would he or she be sleeping in the forest?" wondered Kitty.

"Either it could be VARIO's nightcap, or it may belong to somebody who might not even have a home?" Warrio theorized.

"Possibly. Warrio, would you give it to me?" asked Calimero.

"Sure." said Warrio and gives the nightcap to Calimero. After taking a look at it they spot a "V" on the cap.

"This one has a "V" on it!" said Calimero.

"Yeah, it does." said Valeriano.

"But nightcaps usually don't have a single letter on them." said Roshita.

"Unless the detail is a stylistic choice maybe." said Priscilla.

"That "V" reminds me of VARIO somehow. I can even tell it is his nightcap due to it being white, while the "V" is red." said Warrio.

"So it is just as I thought; VARIO has started to sleepwalk again!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"But where could he be?" wondered Priscilla.

"Aw, he could be walking about just anywhere in the woods, so I think we should be able to find him fairly easily. But shouldn't we go and find Mimmy as well?" said Warrio.

"Mimmy can wait for now. Right now I find it more important to find your missing brother." said Kitty.

"I couldn't agree more. Even so, we'll be finding your sister as well." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Somewhere else in the woods, VARIO is indeed seen to be sleepwalking. He has apparently been sleepwalking for so long that by the time he wakes up he probably won't even know where he is. Just then a shadow looms over VARIO.

It isn't shown what happens though because the scene immediately shifts back to Calimero and friends, who have been looking all over the forest for VARIO. Warrio however is starting to get tired of searching for VARIO.

"Garlic, all this lookin' around for a fatso in pajamas is tiring me out. I better lie down for a moment..." said Warrio and sits down by a tree to rest.

"Warrio, get back up again! The search isn't over." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Wario-Ware-Man, I need to rest my feet for a moment. I won't be taking long." said Warrio and pulls a garlic out of his pocket and starts chewing on it.

"Sigh... alright, you do you. But do get a move on after you're done resting, we haven't got all day." said Wario-Ware-Man and leaves Warrio where he is.

"Don't worry, I'll be back soonish!" said Warrio and keeps eating on his garlic while the others keep looking for VARIO. He then pulls out a "Fatso-News" magazine to read on while he's resting.

"It's a good thing the stores take in the occasional "Fatso-News" magazine. They sometimes have much better stuff to write about compared to the "Condor News" magazine." said Warrio and starts reading.

Calimero and friends keep looking for VARIO. It's easier said than done because no matter where they look they can't find him. Despite her positive outlook on things, Kitty is visibly worried about her sister.

"Kitty?" Priscilla asked her after taking notice.

"Wha?? What is it Priscilla?" said Kitty and tries to shake off the feeling.

"Nothing. I just happened to notice you worrying over something." said Priscilla.

"Me, worry?? I... I'm not worried over anything." said Kitty and does her best to look happy. Priscilla then gives her a hug.

"Look, it is alright to let us see your real emotions. I can tell you're worried about your sister." said Priscilla.

"Yes... I am a bit worried actually. I just don't want to let my emotions affect my approach over things, but it is sometimes pretty hard..." said Kitty.

"It's ok Kitty, it's ok. I promise that we will find your sister soon." said Priscilla and keeps walking by Kitty's side.

"Um, am I the only to wonder about this, but... where's Warrio gone to??" wondered Valeriano.

"Warrio told me he needed to sit down and rest for a moment. But admittedly, I'm also starting to wonder where he is because he hasn't shown up since I left him." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I could be wrong, but maybe he has gone back to the White family's house or something? I'm not even trying to be funny or anything." said Piero.

"Don't worry Piero, you are in the clear. Though I do feel it's something else that might be taking him longer." said Valeriano.

"We better not worry about Warrio for now. Once we've found VARIO I suppose we can go and look for Mimmy as well, assuming something hasn't happened to her as well..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Meanwhile back at the tree, Warrio is still reading on his magazine, now having come across some very interesting article concerning the fate of some company.

"Hm, so it seems one of the most unpopular video game companies of all time, MonaWare Inc, is about to finally get the boot." said Warrio and starts to read out the article.

"The current state of the MonaWare Inc. company: The company has been standing on its tall mountain pillar for years now. Nobody has been showing up, let alone even working there. The CEO of the company, Mona, has also not been seen around there lately. There has also been no talks of insolvency proceedings. Discussions are being had about selling off the company's assets and demolishing the building. The Wario Fatsos Inc. building meanwhile, will be standing where it is since it has been seen as something important to be kept for history sakes. As for the guys who ran the latter company, no one is quite sure where they are, or if they will ever come back again..." Warrio read the article. He isn't all that surprised over the fate of MonaWare Inc. though.

"Meh, serves them well I think. They were quite an irritating rival to me and my brothers at the end, and it's only a good thing their company is going to be demolished. Maybe they could use the spare bits and pieces of it to build something new and better. I am a bit humbled though that our building will be left intact..." said Warrio while thinking over the last bit.

"Maybe we should return to Diamond City at some point? But on the other hand, I don't think it'll be worth our time, considering everything else we've been doing after those days..." said Warrio and flicks to another page. His moment is interrupted when sounds of lasers are heard somewhere in the woods.

"What the... has The Monitor decided to go on a rampage now to just get back at me, VARIO, and Wario-Ware-Man?!" Warrio wondered to himself.

His little guess is proven wrong when a big flying saucer looking like a big garlic sporting a Wario-Mustache and antennas on top appears before his very eyes., blasting trees in its path.

"My garlic, are we having an alien invasion now?!!" said Warrio and panickedly rushes off to warn Calimero and the others.

Back to Calimero and friends, they have been looking for VARIO for what seems to be eternity, and have decided to sit down and rest.

Kitty meanwhile are plucking flowers with Priscilla in a small field nearby. It was Priscilla's idea to find a place with flowers since it gives not only her a opportunity to pluck some flowers for Calimero, but to also give Kitty something else to think about.

"Thanks for suggesting that we go and pluck some flowers. It has really lifted up my mood a bit." said Kitty.

"Aw, it's nothing. Me and Calimero always plucks some rather nice flowers for each other, and it is always he who gets me the very best flowers." said Priscilla.

"I should do this more often. Maybe I could find some very nice flowers for Mimmy to give to her boyfriend!" said Kitty.

"You're talking about Robert, right?" asked Priscilla.

"Yes. Mimmy really likes him very much, but keeps getting too shy to ask him out. Maybe giving him some flowers could be the right way for Mimmy to start off their next date!" said Kitty and starts giggling.

They both laugh and giggle as they keep picking flowers until they hear someone shouting. They rush back to where Calimero and the others are to see what is going on.

Calimero and friends have just seen Warrio returning, who apparently is in a real panic over something.

"There you are Warrio! What took you so long to finally get off your behind?!" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"That's not important right now! Let's just get out of the woods, quickly!!" said Warrio.

"Why should we? We've still got some missing persons to find!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I saw a flying ufo in the woods while I was reading, blasting stuff in its path!!" said Warrio.

"Warrio, have you been reading too many comics again?" Wario-Ware-Man asked him, not believing the things he just said.

"I agree with Wario-Ware-Man. If there was a ufo around here, we would've seen it long ago." said Calimero, also not believing Warrio.

"Grr... may I ask you all to please be quiet and listen for a moment?" said Warrio.

"Why?" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Because by being silent, we might actually hear the beeping noise from the ufo." said Warrio.

Having nothing else to say, Calimero and the others go silent and tries to listen to any possible beeping noise around them. When it seems that the only thing being heard are the leaves on the trees blowing, they suddenly hear some kind of beeping noise.

"Right, did you hear it?" asked Warrio.

"I think it's just the creaking noise of a tree somewhere..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

Warrio sighs and again tells the group to listen very closely. Sure enough, they hear the same beeping noise again, now sounding somewhat more like a ufo.

"I'm not quite sure what that noise is about, but I now think Warrio might be on to something..." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"We better go and check this out." said Calimero. Before anyone can even do anything some round shadow appears above them. They look up to see the very ufo Warrio has been talking about. It then flies off again.

"There! You believe me NOW?!?" said Warrio.

"I'm taking back everything I said moments ago! That was a really huge spaceship!! We better follow it!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Yeah, let's go after it! Maybe this ufo has taken VARIO hostage!" said Calimero and with the others starts running after the ufo.

Meanwhile inside the ufo, it is shown that VARIO has indeed been kidnapped, now sleeping on a operators bench. A pair of Wario-Noses with antennas are seen approaching him. They are about his size, only somewhat smaller.

"Ah, finally we have a living specimen to conduct our experiments on." said the Wario-Nose to the left.

"But can we be sure that the specimen we just caught is the right one?" said the Wario-Nose to the right. The one to the left then slaps him with one of its legs.

"You idiot. I am fairly sure it is one of the two specimen we're looking for. That is according to the directions we've been given." said the left Wario-Nose.

"I wonder which the second one would be..." said the right Wario-Nose. They then hear a female, snobby voice booming behind them.

"Hey lazyheads! Get going and look for the other fellow!" said the voice.

"A-As you say, madame!" said both Wario-Noses and gets back to the cockpit.

Back down on the ground, Calimero and friends have just lost the ufo they chased. While they tried their best to follow it, it disappeared again before their very eyes.

"I wonder where this ufo could have gone." said Warrio.

"Don't worry guys. We will soon see it again. We just have to wait a little." said Valeriano.

"I'm confused though as to why a ufo appears in a forest in the middle of the day." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I think the same as you. Though it did seem to be looking for something, taking the chance to also blast any trees in sight..." said Calimero.

"But why would it destroy only trees and nothing else in its path??" asked Piero.

"I'm equally clueless. Maybe it's doing things in the way it does to have a better chance of finding its target? That's all I can think of..." Warrio theorized.

The ufo then appears again, this time coming to a stop just above the group. Warrio finally sees his chance to mock the guys piloting the ufo.

"Hey you little garlicheads! Whoever is piloting that strange little thing above us, tell us where VARIO is!!" Warrio shouted at them.

"Yeah. Whoever you are, show yourselves or we will make you do it!" said Valeriano.

To their confusion and chock, not only is the ufo piloted by a pair of alien Wario-Noses, but one of their most persistent criminals in history, Sharon, is shown to be aboard the ufo.

"You know, I find the idea of Sharon inside a spaceship to be absolutely ridiculous..." said Warrio.

"So you're back again, Sharon! What are you planning this time?" said Priscilla.

"I, am conducting one of my greatest, and potentially most successful schemes yet; enlisting the help of aliens to try and take over the world, starting with this little town here! Ha, ha, ha, haa!" said Sharon.

"I can't tolerate such acts!! What have you done to our town so far?" said a furious Kitty.

"We've only just got started. So far we've caught our first specimen, but we need two of them to power a new weapon which will blast the entire planet. One of them is a black-n-white clad fatso, and a little kitty in a yellow shirt and red overalls." said Sharon.

"You're talking about Mimmy, right!" said Kitty.

"I sure am, my little fellow." said Sharon.

"I won't let you get your hands on my sister! Together me, Calimero and everyone by my side will put a stop to your plan!" said Kitty. Sharon just laughs.

"Hah, you can try all you want, but this time you won't be able to stop me! Alright pilot of the ship, prepare the laser." Sharon instructed the pilot.

"As you command us, madame." said the Wario-Nose at the drivers seat and prepares to fire a laser at Calimero and the group.

"We better get out of the way quick!!" said Calimero and runs off with everyone. The laser misses its target, leaving just a burnt black spot where they were standing. Sharon is not too furious over it though.

"Well, it's only a little miss. We've got more attempts to fry Calimero and his little group. After them, and keep blasting!" said Sharon.

Calimero and friends keep running for their lives as Sharon and the Wario-Noses chase them through the woods, blasting away tree after tree.

"That Sharon woman has gone ABSOLUTELY nuts about taking over the world... or more like, destroy it!!" said Warrio.

"I agree with you there! She is going too far this time around!!" said Piero.

"I'm sure we'll find a way to teach her a lesson. We're not to be beaten down that easily!" said Valeriano.

"Yes, but how?? I mean, she is out of our reach right now, and with the comfort of a spaceship and a pair of alien Wario-Noses by her side, it is going to be a challenge for sure!" said Maya.

"Like Valeriano said, I think we can either bring the ufo down, or find a way inside." said Calimero.

The ufo then stops blasting and flies away, leaving Calimero and friends alone for now.

"Phew. Thought I was gonna turn into a roasted duck in any second..." said Piero.

"I wonder where that spaceship flew off to." said Warrio.

"They've probably gone off to search for my sister!" said Kitty.

"There's no time to waste guys. We better stop them before they can find Mimmy!" said Maya.

Inside the spaceship, VARIO has just woken up to find himself inside some sort of thing. He looks around and sees he's definitely not in the White family's house anymore.

"Hm, since when did things look like this?? This place is looking rather odd, what with all those tools and such around the bench I'm lying on... bench? Hm..." said VARIO and starts looking around some more. It takes a moment for him to realize where he is though, especially after seeing a pair of Wario-Noses with antennas on top.

I'm... I'm inside of a spaceship?!! Hey you guys, whoever you are just drop me off!! I haven't asked to be your next experiment!! VARIO demanded. He is not only horrified, but also confused when Sharon shows up, walking towards the bench he's lying on.

"S-Sharon?!? But... I thought you were in jail by now!?" said VARIO.

"Hah, that's what you guys always seem to think. But like always, I end up finding my ticket out to freedom. Anyway, surprised to see you already awake. I thought you would be sleeping till the end of your life." said Sharon.

"Where are you taking me, and what's your plan this time??" VARIO demanded her.

"I'm keeping you hostage in this spaceship for a little experiment we're going to conduct. We're planning to use you, along with another specimen, for a very special kind of device which will take out the entire planet." said Sharon.

"Another specimen huh? Would this "specimen" be Wario-Ware-Man by any chance?" said VARIO.

"No." is the only word Sharon says and shakes her head.

"Would it be Warrio?" asked VARIO.

"No." said Sharon and shakes her head again.

"Um... Mimmy??" said VARIO, now out of options.

"The third one is correct." Sharon finally answered.

"Why would you need me and her?!" asked VARIO.

"The both of you contain the DNAs I need for powering the huge weapon that's being worked on at a base just outside the Earth's orbit. One of the DNAs is fear, and the other one is kindness." said Sharon.

"So is that ALL you need in order to power this huge device of yours??" said VARIO.

"Yes. Though I need YOUR DNA more than anything. The huge amount of fear along with kindness, would result in the most powerful formula needed to blast this planet to pieces!" said Sharon.

"My amount of DNA, along with Mimmy's kindness? I don't really understand..." said VARIO and starts thinking over it all.

Before VARIO can even process all the information Sharon then puts him to sleep again by putting a sleeping gas mask over his face.

"How bad for you, because you won't even be able to process anything in a while... or at all, hah hah hah hah!!" Sharon said and starts laughing.

Back on ground, Calimero and friends are still trying to track the spaceship's position with Valeriano's spaceship radar.

"I wonder if we will ever find that spaceship again." said Piero.

"We WILL find it. It can't have flown away that far. We'll hear it on the radar if the spaceship is anywhere near." said Valeriano and keeps walking around with the radar. After a few minutes the radar starts bleeping intensely, indicating the spaceship must be nearby.

"The signal is pretty strong. We must be near it by now!" said Valeriano.

They follow the noise from the radar to a spot in the forest. Not seeing it anywhere, they then look up to see the spaceship hovering above.

"Why isn't the spaceship moving?" Susie wondered.

"I wonder the same thing." said Roshita.

"Maybe they are having their attention on something else right now. Maybe they're conversing with Sharon over something." said Maya.

"I think so too. Even better, the spaceship is hovering just above some treetops!" said Priscilla after observing the spaceship being just about reachable from the trees.

"We have our opportunity now guys! Come on, let's enter the spaceship before it flies off again." said Calimero. Warrio and Piero gulps upon hearing this.

"Um, is it really a good idea to enter a alien spaceship uninvited??" said Warrio.

"I'm with Warrio there. What if they try to capture us?!" said Piero.

"We haven't got any choice! This could be our only chance to get up there and rescue VARIO, along with Mimmy if she's already in there! We better not pass this on." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I'm coming with you guys. I'm not gonna let some aliens do any awful experiments to my best sister!" said Kitty and follows along with Calimero and the others.

Meanwhile in the spaceship, the Wario-Noses are conversing with Sharon over something very important.

"So, remind us what we should do after we find our specimens. We need to make sure we're understanding it right." said the left Wario-Nose.

"Well, after we have captured both VARIO and Mimmy, we will proceed to start extracting their DNAs. The reason I put that fat douchebag here to sleep is to prevent him from sabotaging things." said Sharon.

"Oh, just one thing if you excuse madame. Will we be getting any payment for helping with your deeds?" asked the other Wario-Nose.

"After helping me destroy this planet, you will be given ALL the precious diamonds and emeralds me and my Dumb-Crow lackeys have been extracting from various mines across the globe, and the depths of the planet for years." said Sharon.

"That is precisely what we need. They are the very source for powering our spacecrafts with, and making new weapons!" said the first Wario-Nose.

"Why of course, I'm only happy to please you guys." said Sharon with a devilish smirk on her face.

"Sorry for wondering about this but, will that "VARIO" human wake up again at some point?" wondered the other Wario-nose.

"Nah, it is highly unlikely he'd ever wake up because the amount of sleeping gas I gave him will keep him asleep for the rest of the day." said Sharon.

While they're chatting away their moment is interrupted when the voice of a certain black chick is heard. Sharon turns around to see Calimero and his little group of friends now being inside the spaceship.

"But... how'd you little nitwits get in here??!" said Sharon.

"Your little spaceship was hovering too low just over the trees, so we could reach the ladder quite easily." said Piero.

"It's your fault for leaving the ship on autopilot, you numbskulls. If you hadn't done that these guys would never have made their way in here!" Sharon blamed the Wario-Noses.

"We're aware there's some flaws with the systems, and right now we can't do anything about it due to lack diamonds and treasures. But as soon as we get the loot we'll be able to fix it." said the first Wario-Nose.

"Treasure??" said Warrio in surprise.

"Warrio, now is not the time to look around for treasure!" Wario-Ware-Man told him.

"I know that. I was just surprised to find out that the sole reason these guys here are helping Sharon with her bad deeds is to get some treasure." said Warrio.

"I'm starting to sense something strange going on here... Sharon, tell us how you got this pair of noses to help you with your schemes!!!" Wario-Ware-Man demanded her.

"With absolute pleasure... it all started the other day. After hearing of a little visit from outer space, I took the opportunity to try and contact them. Just like myself they were out to conquer this planet, and we struck a deal. After getting to their base on a planet opposite of Wario Nosica I assisted these aliens in their plans of constructing the ultimate weapon; a gigantic beam gun which will fire a HUGE laser towards planet Earth, destroying it in less than a second." Sharon explained.

"One thing I wonder is... about the bike shop me and my brothers were in the other day. Who was that shop owner wearing a strange mustache?" Warrio asked.

"That was actually me in disguise. In fact, before you guys arrived I have already had the real shop owner tied, gagged, and locked up in another room. After you left the shop I decided to completely decimate your precious bikes." said Sharon with a sadistic look of glee on her face.

"That is absolute madness! Those bikes were our only means of fast transport on the road!! Now that they've been destroyed, what did you do with the remains of our bikes?!!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"The spare parts are still lying around inside the shop. But I intend to return there soon with my new friends to use the parts for our new machine!" said Sharon.

"About these Wario-Noses besides you... are they good or evil??" said Warrio.

"We are evil, and we hate the good race of aliens more than anything else!" said the first Wario-Nose.

"Hm, interesting that there are two different races of alien Wario-Noses. One of them are good, while the other are bad." a very intrigued Warrio said to himself.

"That is the most evil thing I've ever heard! You guys are planning to wipe us out with that device of yours!!" said a furious Kitty.

"That's correct! We'll be using it to wipe out not only this planet, but any galaxy or planet that disobey our orders." said Sharon.

"You better tell us where Mimmy is! I don't want to see her being experimented on in goodness knows what horrible ways!" said Kitty.

"We have yet to find her, and I can tell you're after her too. But rest assured, we'll be taking good care of her once we find her." Sharon said while laughing rather devilishly.

"Excuse me, but these Wario-Noses are being paid to do your dirty work!?" Warrio asked Sharon, still unable to believe the fact they are receiving payment for following her orders.

"That is so, why do you ask?" said Sharon with a tone of sarcasm in her voice.

Upon hearing Warrio's opinion, the Wario-Noses now begin to question if they will actually be compensated. Witnessing this, Sharon starts to feel a bit of panic, worried her plans are about to be blown out of the water.

"Er, I-I can assure you that you WILL be getting the money once we get the DNAs extracted from our wanted subjects!" Sharon tries to assure the Wario-Noses.

"Um, sorry for interrupting, but... why do you want the DNAs of VARIO and Mimmy?" Maya asked.

"Well you see, both VARIO and Mimmy contain the DNAs needed for our weapon. One of them is fear, the other one being kindness. I need VARIO's DNA more than anything though, because the rather high amount of fear combined with kindness would make our weapon so powerful it could obliterate ANY planet to dust, ha ha ha hah..." said Sharon and starts laughing again.

"You, you... FIEND!! You will NEVER succeed with this plans of yours, and me and my friends here will be making sure it all fails!!" Priscilla told Sharon off. Sharon just snaps her fingers, after which the Wario-Noses proceeds to tie Calimero and friends up.

A moment later the group are now shown to be tied with the most secure rope they have ever seen. It is so strong that even the slightest attempt to try and free themselves will cause pain in their bodies.

"My garlic, that sure is some very strong rope you've got there madame!" said Warrio.

"Indeed... I can't even use my hand to scratch my own mustache!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Why thank you. It is in fact rope of the latest state-of-the-art technology, kindly provided to us by the aliens over at Wario-Nosica." said Sharon.

"More like stolen perhaps!!" said Valeriano.

"Hah hah. You could put it that way too... now, I'm off to chat with my fellows at the cockpit." said Sharon.

"You cruel criminal! Once me and my friends get ourselves free we will put a stop to your plans, and I will also tell my parents about this!!" Kitty told her.

"Don't worry, because in a matter of time this planet won't have time to even think about what's coming at them." said Sharon and leaves Calimero and friends in their spot, all tied up.

"Ms. Sharon, is it time to seek for our next target?" said the Wario-Nose at the drivers seat.

"The time has come, my comrades. Go ahead. Seek at every corner, and blast any trees in sight. We've got to find that little girl, and quick!" said Sharon. The Wario-Noses activates the driving mechanism of the spaceship and starts heading for their target.

"I really regret getting into this spaceship now! Who knows what they're gonna do with us!!" said Piero, feeling more than afraid over what might happen to him and the others.

"Piero, now is not the time to start worrying over things! We better try and think of a way to free ourselves from this rope, which I admit is extremely tight and strong... and escapeproof!" said Valeriano.

A bit later, Sharon and the Wario-Noses are still searching the forest for Mimmy, and yet they haven't spotted her anywhere despite their best efforts.

"I wonder if our commander will be rewarding us with all the treasure as promised, should we find our second target." said the Wario-Nose at the passenger seat.

"I'm fairly certain it will all pay off. Don't mind it for now. Let's just focus on finding our next target." said the Wario-Nose at the steering wheel.

Meanwhile, Sharon is standing just behind them with her back turned, apparently in thought over the events that will unfold once Mimmy is found.

"Soon, after we find that darn little girl, I will be getting her and VARIO's DNAs, and we can finally get to work on the weapon." said Sharon to herself in a low voice. However, she doesn't seem to be done talking to herself yet.

"Those alien Wario-Noses are fools for believing in the promise I made about rewarding them with all my precious diamonds after they get my victims. Once the earth is blown to pieces, I'll be stealing ALL of their diamonds and such for myself, and eventually I'll also destroy their planet with the weapon we just made!" Sharon said to herself.

She isn't aware that she's speaking out louder than usual. The Wario-Noses have been listening in to her private little conversation, and are less than pleased over what she has just said.

"We're not amused to hear that you are planning to loot and destroy our planet after we have done all the work to destroy this planet!" said the Wario-Nose at the passenger seat.

"Yeah. And we thought we could trust in your words!" said the Wario-nose at the steering wheel.

"Oops, looks like I've just made a big goof... look, I wasn't talking about you. I was referring to planet Wario Nosica!" Sharon tried to convince them.

"We aren't the least convinced. You clearly said that you were going after our planet. That is precisely what we heard you talking about!" said the first Wario-Nose.

"But, but..." was all Sharon could say.

"No buts. Our deal is off. We may be an evil race of alien Wario-Noses, but we DON'T tolerate someone betraying us later on!" said the first Wario-Nose.

Now in a real panic, Sharon tries her best to reverse course, with little success.

"Look, just find that little bitch in the woods and bring her here, get her and VARIO's DNAs, and go back to your planet to continue work on the weapon!!" Sharon ordered them.

"Too late, Mrs. Sharon. They seem to already have made up their mind about what to do with you..." said Warrio to himself.

Indeed, like Warrio just said the Wario-Noses have already made up their mind, and is about to kick Sharon out of their spaceship.

"No! You idiots!! Anh, ugh!!" said Sharon and breaks free from the Wario-Noses grip, and proceeds to try and steer the spaceship herself.

"Wait, you don't even know how to handle this vehicle!!" the first Wario-Nose tried to warn her.

"You are more than useless. Stand back, I'm assuming command of this ship from now on!" said Sharon and tries to handle the spaceship anyway.

Outside the spaceship, it now starts to fly around all over the place and rotating erratically, only to nosedive straight down towards the ground.

Meanwhile, at some other place in the woods, Mimmy is shown to still be good and well. By sheer luck she has managed to stay undetected by the alien Wario-Noses' spaceship, and she hasn't even been aware of any invasion occurring.

"Sure was a good thing to get up early and go to the forest to pluck some nice apples. I'm sure Kitty are gonna love these when I show them to her. I'm having the entire basket full by now..." said Mimmy and looks up at the sky looking down at the trees around her.

"Hm, it's starting to turn evening soon, because I can see part of the sky turning orange and pink, although it's still mostly blue. Might as well get back home now." said Mimmy and is about to start heading out of the woods, but comes to a stop after hearing a big crash nearby.

"Huh? Sounded like something's crashed!" said Mimmy and rushes over to the source where the noise came from. She is surprised to see a big, round but flat object on the ground which is in a terrible condition, with smoke coming out of it.

"That's strange. I don't remember seeing this thing here before." said Mimmy to herself. Out of the thing emerges her sister Kitty, having been freed from the rope that held her in place.

"Kitty??" said Mimmy in surprise after seeing her.

"Mimmy!!" said Kitty and rushes over to check on Mimmy.

"What's going on around here??" said Mimmy.

"Mimmy, don't be afraid now but, there has been a attempt to kidnap you and VARIO, point being to extract your DNAs to power a huge weapon which will be used to destroy our planet!" Kitty explained.

"... I'm confused now Kitty. I've never heard of such things going on." said a confused Mimmy.

"I understand Mimmy. But where have you been? Me and the others have been looking for you all day!" said Kitty.

"Sorry, but what do you mean by "others"?" asked Mimmy.

They look over to the spaceship on the ground, and out of it emerges Wario-Ware-Man, Warrio, VARIO, Maya, and Calimero and his group of friends. Warrio is seen dragging Sharon out of the spaceship with his arm, completely knocked out.

"Graah. Who would've thought that such a vain, yet snobby and clever criminal woman would take hours to drag with you!" said Warrio as he keeps dragging her.

After they've all gone out the pair of alien Wario-Noses emerge from the wrecked spaceship. Mimmy gets a bit scared upon seeing them and hides behind Kitty.

"It's ok Mimmy, they won't be doing anything to you or me by now." Kitty assured her.

"A-are you sure of it Kitty??" asked Mimmy nervously.

"Um... not quite yet. But let's see what happens." said Kitty.

"Phew. At last we've managed to stop them from destroying our planet." said Priscilla.

"Guys, Mimmy is feeling a bit scared right now because of the aliens besides you, so she hid behind me for me to protect her in case of danger." kitty told the group.

"Alright Mimmy, don't worry. These guys aren't gonna cause any more problems. But I think we've got some explaining to do." said Valeriano and let's Calimero take over.

"Ok. If I may tell you all, this is the story of what has been going on recently..." said Calimero and starts to tell Mimmy the tale of them stopping a criminal, snobby lady named Sharon from destroying their world with the help of an evil race of aliens. After he finishes the story Mimmy is unable to believe what has just happened.

"That's awful! Why would someone try and do something as selfish and cruel like this!" said Mimmy.

"Well, so is life in the world of criminality, I guess. As to why people would go to such lengths, we will never know for sure." said Valeriano.

The alien Wario-Noses have just gotten their bearings again, and realizes their spaceship is now on the ground, completely broken.

"Look, our ship is all broken!" said the first Wario-Nose.

"Yeah. It'll probably take some time to get it fixed..." said the other Wario-Nose.

"Sorry for interrupting your little mourning, but... could you tell us, or Mimmy here, what made you decide to invade this planet besides listening to Sharon?" asked Maya.

"Well, we confess that we were simply following the orders of Sharon, and hearing of the opportunity to blast another planet alongside Wario Nosica just sounded too good to be true." said the first Wario-Nose.

"Yes, we were indeed only following orders. But we later found out that Sharon was going to betray us after we destroyed your home planet, along with taking all the payment for herself." said the other Wario-Nose.

"That is indeed the case, because we saw what happened in the spaceship." Calimero assured Mimmy.

"Well... that's good to know, I suppose." said Mimmy.

"Are you aliens planning to invade our home planet again anytime soon?" Priscilla asked them.

"We've abandoned those plans because Sharon lied to us about getting paid for helping with her deeds. We normally prefer only invading other planets like Wario Nosica, planet Earth is just not worth our time and plans, in our opinion." said the first Wario-Nose.

"Yeah. From here on, we certainly won't be relying on Sharon's services in the future. But... what are we gonna do from here on?" said the other Wario-Nose.

"We'll focus on fixing our spaceship first, and until then we can't leave this planet." the first Wario-Nose told him.

"So, are you gonna remain here, or will you seek some other place for the time being?" asked Maya.

"I think we'll remain in this forest for now. We don't want to cause any further uproars to the humans of this planet." said the first Wario-Nose.

"We understand. Good luck in fixing the spaceship!" said Calimero and with his friends bids them farewell, with the Wario-Noses doing the same. Calimero and friends then go back to the suburbs of London again, both to return Kitty and Mimmy back home, and to have Sharon locked up once and for all.

Later at evening, Calimero and friends have been staying in Kitty and Mimmy's house for a while, and are now ready to return home with Wario-Ware-Man, Warrio, and VARIO.

"Thank you guys for everything you've done!" said Kitty.

"No problem, and thanks to you for letting us stay here for a while." said Calimero.

"Aw, it's no problem. We're only glad to have seen some new faces these last few days." said George.

"Indeed. And to think that an invasion was about to happen on this very day. We're glad that our children came to no harm, but I am a bit worried over any future threats that might be happening..." said Mary.

"No need to worry Mr and Mrs White. Should anything similar happen again, me and my friends here will be on the case!" said Calimero.

"We sure will!" said Priscilla.

"Indeed. Should you need us again, then the Green Team will come here to sort it all out." said Valeriano.

"While I tried to do my part to help, I guess I failed quite badly at it..." said Piero.

"Naw, Piero. You did fairly well too. At least you followed us into the spaceship, and that's brave enough." said Valeriano and pats Piero on the back.

"Um, yeah. Not that I had any other choice anyway..." said Piero.

"Don't forget that me and my brothers also took part in the case." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"We sure did. Anyway, I think VARIO here is still a bit tired. While he did wake up after we got back here, he's still not feeling totally alert, especially after all that's happened today. I think maybe we should head back home now." said Warrio.

"We hope to see you guys around here again." said Mimmy.

"Me too. And thanks for letting me help you with baking the fruit pie. The moment I took a single bite of it I felt like I were in heaven. It was so sweet and yummy!" said Maya.

"Te hee, thank you!" said a blushing Mimmy and gives Maya a little hug, with Maya hugging her back.

After farewells have been said Wario-Ware-Man and friends leave the town. They're all sitting on Maya's motor bike due to Wario-Ware-Man & siblings' bikes having been totally vandalized the other day.

"It has been quite the adventure today!" said Calimero.

"I agree. It was also great to see Kitty and Mimmy again." said Priscilla.

"Sharon's involvement with the alien Wario-Noses was the most exciting to me. It gave me the opportunity to do some filming work with my camera again!" said Valeriano.

"Well... at least we saved the planet from potential destruction. That's all I can say, really." said Piero.

"I agree with everything that's been said so far. I do hope to return to Kitty and Mimmy's hometown again someday." said Maya.

"I just want to get back home and lie down on the sofa. What has happened today has really tired me out, more than usual." said VARIO and starts to yawn a little.

"We are heading back home VARIO. Only thing I wonder is... HOW in the garlic did you manage to sleepwalk for such a long time?!" said Wario-Ware-Man.

"I don't know... only thing I remember first seeing when waking up was the insides of an alien spaceship. After that I found myself in the house of the White family again for some weird reason..." said VARIO.

"So you don't even remember talking to Sharon in the spaceship??" asked Wario-Ware-Man.

"I do remember seeing AND talking to her. But what was being said I really can't remember." said VARIO.

"Alright. Just the fact that you don't remember that much about the entire event, I suppose you don't even want to be reminded about it then." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"You're right there..." said VARIO.

"Will we be picking up our Wario-Bikes today?" asked Warrio.

"Not today. But the owner of the bike shop has been found and untied, and he's now fixing the bikes as fast as he can. If all goes well, maybe we can go and pick them up the next day." said Wario-Ware-Man.

"Thank garlic. I'm already missing my old trusty Wario-Bike by now." said Warrio.

As everyone behind her are chatting away, Maya glances towards the starry skies while driving her bike.

"Sigh. A lot has happened today. From finding my best friends to finding Kitty's sister, to stopping a alien invasion from happening. We've sure been through quite the day today. I can only wonder what other things might happen next." said Maya and keeps thinking over what new adventures might await them.

The End...
